Record 'Off-Year' Vote Foreseen for County In Tuesday Election

Total of 29,000 Ballots Believed Likely To Be Cast In Richland Contests.

By PHILIP GREENE

With political campaigning aimed at winning the electoral battles at an end, prospects appeared good today that a record total of votes for an "off-year" election would be cast Tuesday.

Leaders and observers saw a vote total in Richland county reaching up to the 29,000 level, only 4,000 under the vote in 1944 when presence of presidential candidates on the the ballots induced many voters to exercise their privilege.

Voting booths will be open from 6:30 a. m. to 6:30 p. m., George C. Balliett, chairman of the board of elections, said.

Leading observers to believe that the vote will be heavy for an off-year was the unusually large number of Richland countians who are registered with the board of elections. This year there are 22,975 registered voters, a gain of 1,123 over the 21,852 persons registered last fall and 632 more than qualified for the election of 1944.

While only the city building, the banks and the bars will close their doors, retail stores and factories are expected to give their employes time off in order to cast their ballots. The banks and the city building will close at noon. Bars may sell only 3.2 beer from one hour before the polls open until one hour after they close.

Principal interest in the election campaign centered in the contest for governor between Frank J. Lausche, Democratic candidate for re-election, and Thomas J. Herbert, former Republican attorney general, and the U. S. senatorial race between former Gov. John W. Bricker, GOP nominee, and James W. Huffman, Democratic incumbent.

Of particular interest to Richland county and Mansfield voters is the contest between Wesley W. Purdy, Democratic Mansfield contractor who is running for congress in the 17th district, and his Republican opponent, J. Harry McGregor, now in office.

In addition to other state candidates, officials at the county level are also to be elected, namely county commissioner and county auditor. Incumbent C. L. Shoup, Republican, and Lewis L. Rinehart, Democrat, are opposing each other for the commissioner's office while County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe, Democrat, is unopposed for election to the office he now holds.

Levies Hold Interest.

Still another factor attracting voter interest is the presentation of 11 tax levies and one bond issue for ballot approval. Nine of the levies are for school operating funds, one is to finance Mansfield's proposed recreation program, and the other is to provide revenue to continue lighting the

SCHOOL ISSUES HELP SPUR OHIOANS TO VOTE

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Predictions of victory came from headquarters of both the Democrats and Republicans last night as the campaign for votes in Tuesday's Ohio election neared a close.

In a last minute prediction the office of Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel revised upward its estimate of the vote from 2,000,000 to 2,215,000. An announcement that record-breaking number of 607 school bond issues and tax levies was on the ballot prompted the forecast of the additional turnout.

The pre-election forecasts read:

Clarence H. Knisley, Democratic campaign director—"the reports coming from reliable sources show that Gov. Frank J. Lausche will again carry his home county of Cuyahoga by a tremendous majority. Along with a large margin in at least 24 other counties, his majority will be sufficient to put the Democrats on top. All poll re-checks we have heard about show an upswing for the Democrats."

Fred H. Johnson, Republican state chairman—"After careful analysis of reports from every county, I predict the election of the entire Republican state ticket as well as pronounced gains for the Republicans in congressional and county contests. Tom Herbert, for governor, and John Bricker, for United States senator, will win by wide margins. The result, from top to bottom, will be definitely and distinctly Republican. The New Deal will be done in Ohio."

As the rival candidates for governor and U. S. senator were concentrating their attention on Cleveland and northern Ohio yesterday, a Democratic state official whose office is not at stake in Tuesday's election delivered a blast from the capital.

State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson in a formal statement described as "ridiculous" a claim by Herbert that 5,000 employes had been added to the state pay roll during Governor Lausche's administration.

He said that " a few hundred employes" had been added to bolster the welfare and highway departments. These departments, the auditor asserted, provided a "national disgrace" during the preceding Republican administration.

BOTH PARTIES CLAIM IT'S 'IN THE BAG'

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The 1946 battle of the ballots produced for the first time last night an unqualified claim from the Democratic command that Tuesday's election will tighten their grip on senate and house. Republicans voiced confidence that control of both branches of congress surely will shift to them.

With the issues sharply defined and minds of a multitude of voters made up during weeks of heavy campaigning, Democratic National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan revised upward previous forecasts that his party would hang on to majorities in senate and house.

Republican Chairman Carroll Reece declared as confidently in another statement:

"The congress to be elected on Tuesday will be a Republican congress."

As the campaign started briskly down the stretch, efforts diminished on both sides to swing votes by oratorial outpourings. President Truman continued mum at his home in Iedependence, Mo.

Issues making this off-year election campaign one of the hottest in recent history have been the shortage of meat and other things consumers want, controls over prices, the possibility of another coal strike.

In state after state, those have been key issues. In addition, the candidates are fighting it out over many other points. For instance:

Republicans charge there is an alliance between the Democrats and communists, as well as between the Democrats and the CIO-Political Action Committee. Democrats say they don't want and don't deserve communist backing.

The GOP promises to cut expenses and lower taxes if it takes over congress. The Democrats accuse the Republicans of trying to sabotage what they call a constructive program begun by President Roosevelt and continued by President Truman.

The Republicans appeal to the people to put them in control to end "corruption" in government. The Democrats cry it would be bad to erect in congress "a house divided against itself."

The outcome will be determined by an estimated 59,669,656 persons qualified to vote. Figures from state and political leaders indicate more than 35,000,000 actually will turn up at the polls.

To break the Democratic hold on congress, the Republicans need a net gain of 10 senate and 26 house seats.

Republican senate strength now

TB DIRECTOR ASKS 3 COUNTY SANATORIUM

Dr. Oren Beatty Recommends Project to Serve Larger Area Than Richland.

A modern tuberculosis sanatorium large enough to serve Richland, Ashland, and Crawford counties was recommended yesterday by Dr. Oren A. Beatty, medical director of the Richland county TB sanatorium.

Dr. Beatty said the Ashland County Medical society had endorsed the tri-county sanatorium plan.

Richland county commissioners already have plans for a proposed 49-bed Richland county hospital to be built on State Route 39 southeast of Mansfield. A $300,000 bond issue for the project was voted last fall, but commissioners have found they probably can't build the sanatorium for that amount

* * *

Cheaper To Operate.

"A larger sanatorium would be much more economical to operate. would serve a much larger segment of the population that needs it, and would be much more acceptable to officials of the state department of health," Dr. Beatty said.

"I have it unofficially from the state health department that it strongly prefers district sanatoriums that will serve from two to five counties. I agree that a larger hospital should be constructed," Dr. Beatty said.

The Ashland County Medical society Friday night passed a resolution endorsing a tri-county sanatorium, to be located in Richland county, and voted to recommend to the Ashland county commissioners that they place a bond issue before their voters to finance the project.

The action and Dr. Beatty's remarks came one year, almost to the day, after Richland countians voted an 87 per cent majority in favor of building a new $300,000 county sanatorium.

* * *

Oppose Larger Project.

However, Richland county's commissioners have been opposed to building a larger sanatorium because, under state law, its control would be taken out of the hands of the commissioners.

Several weeks ago C. L. Shoup, chairman of the commissioners, announced that he and the other two commissioners, John W. Selby and Guy F. Stewart, were opposed to turning the sanatorium over to a board of trustees be-

MORE MINERS WALK OFF JOB

WASHINGTON —(AP)— More bituminous miners quit work by the hundreds today in connection with John L. Lewis' new contract negotiations while the operators protested that any further wage concessions would price coal right out of the fuel market.

William Blizzard, president of the United Mine Workers District 17 in West Virginia, said the walkout "is spreading, but we are doing all we can to prevent it."

Reports from management and union sources indicated some 10,000 miners were idle in West Virginia and Pike county, Kentucky, with others idle in Tennessee. Scores of mines were shut down and absenteeism hampered some still operating.

With the wage talks between the administration and Lewis in recess until Monday, a National Coal association statement said "our whole national economy trembles in jeopardy" while the government and the "big boss of the United Mine Workers play a game of checkers with a three-billion-dollar industry."

Both the union and the government said they expect the closed mines to reopen Monday. But John D. Battle, executive secretary of the Coal association, declared there may be an epidemic of stoppages to block any accumulation of coal reserves.

"When I came here 15 years ago," Dr. Fonkalsrud recalls, "we had only 29 babies for the entire year. This year for the first nine months we had an even thousand. And it looks now as if we'll have more than 1,300 births in the hospital for this year."

A check of back records discloses that for the first four years of Dr. Fonkalsrud's regime, births totaled only 25 more than they did through September of this year." That's an all-time high.

SEVEN INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Seven persons from Mansfield, Shelby and Willard were injured, three probably seriously, in a two-car, head-on collision around mid-night on the Shelby-Mansfield road.

Injured were Verne Long, Mansfield, driver of one car; R. C. Shaffer, Shelby; Roy Billotte, Mansfield; Sherm Wills, Shelby, and John Korbas, all passengers in Long's car; and Carl Fowler, Willard, and Leone Strimble, Willard.

At 1:30 a. m. today doctors at Mansfield General hospital could not provide details on the injuries.

Long said the accident occurred on well-known "Dead Man's" curve about three miles from Mansfield. He said that after the two cars met, Fowler's car plunged into a guard rail.

Hospital officials later said Long, 50, and Billott, 33, were least seriously injured. Long lives at 60½ South Weldon avenue and Billott on R. D. 3.

Wells' age was given as 35, Shaffer, 51, and Korbas, 42.

Bishop Sees Cost of Living Wage Form As Key To Peace In Capital-Labo

Belief that a wage formula based on the cost of living would eliminate strikes was expressed yesterday by the Most. Rev. Karl J. Alter, bishop of Toledo.

Here to officiate at the centennial celebration of St. Peters church, Bishop Alter gave a practical wording to the ethical formula for industrial peace formulated by a group of Catholic, Protestant and Jewish churchmen who met recently in Washington.

Bishop Alter participated in the conference as head of the social action department of the Catholic Church of America.

"The best solution to the current disagreement between management and labor would be a formula whereby wages are automatically adjusted to the cost of living," he said.

"Unfortunately, there is at present no formula except that of wages and dividends. The owners get the dividends and the workers get wages which are fixed.

"There should be a mutuality of interests between labor and management. Our present system does not permit that mutuality of interests. Most of our conflict and instability arise from the problem of distributive profits."

Labor, he thinks, must increase efficiency if production is to keep pace with demand

"It is to the worker's own interest to better production," he declared. "As of 1940, five men were doing the work which four could do. It suicide to co You can't d haven't got. M would get the fit everybody.

CITIZENS OF MANSFIELD
Let's Look to the Future

The city of Mansfield needs a year 'round planned Recreation program. This need is shared by youngsters and adults, but it is especially necessary for the proper development of tomorrow's citizens . . . our youngsters of today.

Mansfield has a fine park system, school playgrounds and buildings, and the equipment is fairly adequate. However the present recreation board consisting of P. R. Tappan, W. C. Mead, Harold Arlin, Carl Stough and Floyd Dent are in need of funds to provide trained leadership for the operation of a recreation program.

Briefly, the levy will—

1. Use existing facilities, i e parks, school buildings and park playgrounds

2. Provide recreation supervisors and a planned program for the entire year for adults and children

3. Provide funds for the supervision and promotion of recreational activities

4. Make possible a full-time, trained Director of Recreation.

A planned recreation program—

1. Builds health
2. Prevents delinquency.
3. Builds character.
4. Builds morale
5. Is safe.
6 Is economical

PROPOSED TAX LEVY

An additional tax for the benefit of the City of Mansfield for the purpose of providing adequate recreational supervision and facilities, at a rate of not exceeding two-tenths of one mill for each one dollar of valuation, which amounts to two cents for each one hundred dollars of valuation, for a duration of five years.

X FOR THE TAX LEVY
AGAINST THE TAX LEVY

THE COST

THE COST of the proposed Recreation Levy is really insignificant. Based on two-tenths of one mill for each dollar valuation, the levy will cost the average home owner only about 60 cents a year . . the price of one movie, or figured by the month . . a package of gum each month.

About Canton, Lima, Dearborn, Norwood Recreation Programs

By Fred Tharp

MANY PERSONS have the misguided conception of a recreation program as merely a summer-time pursuit. The dictionary defines recreation as "a refreshment of the strength and spirits after toil."

Psychiatrists and other physicians testify to the bodily and mental damage caused by the ineptitude of the average American for the fine art of having a good time during his daily leisure hours. Individuals indulge in recreation activities because they desire to; there is no compulsion.

Therefore, enthusiasts concur, a recreation program must offer opportunities for all age groups to participate in activities which offer the chances for personal success and enjoyment and, further, must offer opportunities for individuals to experience new activities.

Proponents of the Mansfield recreation levy, which goes before the voters Tuesday, say that it may not be practicable to embark immediately on a program that is all inclusive, but a fine start can be made towards putting Mansfield on a par with other cities in recreation if the levy is passed. A favorable vote of 65 per cent is needed to pass the two-mill levy. Passage of the levy would insure Mansfield of $12,000 for supervision of a broad program using Mansfield's fine existing facilities, such as parks, swimming pools, tennis courts, ball diamonds, gymnasiums and school buildings.

This start can be made for the cost of a movie—60 cents—to the average homeowner.

* * * * *

HERE'S WHAT Akron Juvenile Judge Oscar A. Hunsicker said in a statement boosting renewal of the Akron two-mill recreation levy:

"I am very much in favor of the renewal, by the citizens of the city of Akron, of the two mill levy for recreation purposes in the city of Akron. This means but 20 cents on a thousand dollars of assessed valuation or 60 cents on the average home and, by the means of these tax funds, a constructive piece of work can be done for the prevention of juvenile delinquency.

We in the juvenile court have consistently urged increasing the playground and community center facilities in order that the youth of our city may enjoy the supervised activities which are necessary in the building of a good community. The day of the old corner play lot is past and a playground without proper supervision and direction is worse than useless. The first lesson a child must learn in order to live a normal healthy life is community co-operation, and the playgrounds of our city are great training centers in teaching this lesson.

We should think of increasing the number and amount of our recreational facilities in order that all children in every part of the city may avail themselves of these fine opportunities."

DEARBORN, MICHIGAN, has one of the finest recreation programs of any city in the country. The recreation department is incorporated in the city charter the same as the police, fire or city clerk's office and two per cent of the city budget is devoted to recreation. The program (city of 80,000) operates on a budget of $94,151 and the outdoor swimming pool is self-supporting.

Juvenile delinquency in Dearborn is very low because of the comprehensive recreation program, says Henry D. Schubert, superintendent of recreation. Schubert is an organizer of the National Recreation association, president of the Michigan Recreation association, and president of the National Amateur Baseball federation.

Over 2,200 men and boys participated in Dearborn's baseball program. There were 26 men's teams and 88 boys' teams competing.

During the summer of 1946, 18 playgrounds were operated, with organized softball and volleyball for both boys and girls, handicraft, story telling, vocal and instrumental music, family nights, picnics, street dances, playground circuses filling out the program.

Forty-six teams participated in the 1945-46 basketball program with 80 expected this year. This figure does not include church and YMCA leagues.

The recreation department sponsors weekly teen-age dances.

There were 86 men's and 46 junior softball teams.

Volleyball was sponsored on the 18 playgrounds and nine indoor centers, two badminton centers were in use and a wide tennis and table tennis program was followed.

Dearborn facilities include one outdoor and five indoor swimming pools, 15 baseball and 20 softball diamonds, (three lighted), 30 skating rinks, toboggan and sled slides in addition to the playgrounds and indoor community centers.

PROFITS FROM the outdoor swimming pool help defray Norwood's recreation expenses. Norwood, a city of 40,000 gets $13,200 from its tax levy and approximately $16,000 profits from the swimming pool and concessions.

Fifty-four softball, six baseball and twelve basketball teams were sponsored by the Recreation department. Here, again, YMCA cage loops augment the competition. Norwood has "12" kid baseball teams.

Inter-playground competition in softball and volleyball for boys and kickball and volleyball for girls is quite popular. The seven Norwood playgrounds feature wading pools, horseshoe pits, ball diamonds, paddle tennis, chess, handicraft, hobby shoes and other organized activity.

Norwood has six baseball and 12 softball diamonds.

Spotlighting the program is the fine teen-age canteen which is governed by a "kid" board of directors. There are 900 members.

LIMA, A CITY of approximately the same size as Mansfield, operates on a yearly budget of $14,000. This appropriation does not include mention of any board of education funds or facilities used. Nearly $9,000 is earmarked for supervisions, including that of playgrounds, junior baseball, softball and basketball leagues.

Including only activities conducted on a team basis, 3,257 Limaites participated in the 1945-46 recreation program. This does not include individual activities such as horseshoes, fly and bait casting, paddle tennis, checkers and the usual playground recreational pursuits.

In boys' baseball there are three leagues of 18 teams and an American Legion junior team. There were 42 playground and elementary school softball teams, 20 volleyball sextets and eight basketball teams for the lads.

Young girls participated on 42 hit-pin and 20 volleyball teams.

Competition involving men athletes embraced 60 softball, 12 baseball, 18 basketball, six volleyball, and 18 badminton teams. This again does not include YMCA and church loops.

In women's sports there were 16 badminton and six basketball teams.

Lima has 10 playgrounds in operation during the summer and sponsors weekly teen-age dances in two of the city parks. Orchestras from the local high schools play for the "kid" rug-cutters.

APPROXIMATELY two-thirds of Canton's $36,000 yearly appropriation goes for supervision. Entry fees of all leagues take care of the umpires and trophies while the city takes care of maintenance on all recreational areas.

The summer baseball program includes 16 "kid" teams and 10 Class A teams. Canton has 72 men's softball teams and four girls' teams. The Canton recreation department also conducts league competition in volleyball, badminton, basketball and tages a city marble tournament.

More than 140,000 "kids used facilities on Canton's 17 playgrounds. An extensive handicraft program and competition in all sports features the playground program.

Physical properties of the Canton recreation department includes two swimming pools (another is being constructed), four baseball diamonds, 18 softball diamonds, 22 tennis courts, four skating rinks, 17 sled tracks, four casting lagoons and 17 playgrounds.

Ohio State Slashes Northwestern

BUCK BACKS ROLL UP 39-27 MARGIN

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

EVANSTON, Ill.—(AP)—Ohio State's bullet-like backs slashed Northwestern's line to shreds yesterday as the Buckeyes, scoring in every quarter, toppled the Wildcats from the undefeated ranks 39-27 before a homecoming crowd of 46,000 and passed the Western conference leadership to Illinois.

Once-beaten Illinois took the elusive front-running position in the Big Nine by virtue of a 7-0 victory over Iowa and Michigan took second place. Ohio State and Northwestern went into a deadlock for third place.

Both Northwestern and Ohio State substituted freely and in the last half the Wildcats were using fourth stringers in desperation. But the Buckeyes played inspired ball from the start and although the score was knotted 7-7 at the end of the first quarter and 13-13 at the half, Northwestern held the lead only for four minutes in the third period.

The Wildcats forged a 20-13 advantage by turning a recovered fumble into a touchdown. Vic Schwall passed 32 yards to Ken Wiltgen who had to leap for it and then Frank Aschenbrenner swerved and cut back for 18 yards and the score.

Less than two minutes later, Jerry Krall scored the first of his two touchdowns for Ohio State in the third period. He swung 21 yards around end to cap a 72-yard parade in six plays, during which the Buckeyes' speed built up yardage on a series of end sweeps. But John Stungis missed the conversion and Northwestern still led 20-19.

Krall, the Toledo sophomore who picked up 40 yards in four carries, sent the Bucks ahead 25-20 two minutes later, catching a 40-yard pass from Quarterback George Spencer to cap a 67-yard advance in three plays.

Center Tony Adamle, who stood out in the Bucks' pass defense which held Northwestern to 80 yards on four out of 11 completions, intercepted Ted Aschenbrenner's toss and ran it back 38 yards as the third quarter ended. On the sixth play of the final period, Joe Whisler squirmed over from one inch out and Stungis added the point to give Ohio State a 32-20 lead.

On the first play after the kickoff, however, Northwestern bounced back into the game when Vic Schwall—the Big Nine's leading yard-gainer who made 106 yards in nine attempts today—dashed 81 yards for a score behind superb blocking by Sub Center Lloyd Rieckhoff. Jerry Carle booted the point and Northwestern needed only a touchdown to go ahead.

But Adamle's alertness again paid off. He swiped a pass from Bob Baggott and Ohio State was off for the last score of the game, Whisler going over from the one after Spencer had threaded a 19-yard pass to him in the drive.

In the first half scoring, Bob Brugge galloped 13 yards for the Bucks' first marker. Freshman Art Murakowski plowed four for Northwestern to tie the count 7-7 30 seconds before the first quarter gun.

In the second period, Sub Pete Perini ended a 40-yard Buckeye drive in seven plays with a two-yard smash. Northwestern again locked the score 30 seconds before halftime when Murakowski took Bob Baggott's 18-yard scoring toss.

Army 'Spies' Watch Irish Wallop Navy

BALTIMORE —(AP)— Practically surrounded by Army's football "spies," the Irish of Notre Dame only opened one corner of their bag of tricks yesterday, but that was more than enough to scuttle the Navy 28 to 0 for the most lopsided win in the 20-game history of this series.

With their national championship collision with the Cadets only a week away—and the Cadet boss, Coach Red Blaik, among the 65,000 who jammed the sunken Baltimore stadium horseshoe — the Irish played it straight with a minimum of special stuff and a maximum of substitutions to roll to their fifth straight win of their unbeaten campaign.

They didn't have to make any magic at all to maul this set of Midshipmen, all over the premises and hang the fifth setback in a row on the Navy for this fall.

They scooted to three touchdowns in the first half and then ploughed 56 yards to the final tally in the last two minutes of the game. There was one other "touchdown," too, an 83 yard gallop by Gerry Cowhig, but it was called back because of a penalty.

With huge George Connor heading the charging Irish line and Johnny Lujack doing the steering to a "T" in the backfield, Navy's attack bounced harmlessly off the Notre Damers most of the afternoon, except for a few moments in the third quarter. Then, for a while, the Middies caught fire and sailed 69 yards and 35 inches down field, only to be held for downs on the Irish one-inch line. Ralph Williams and Bill Hawkins led this parade, with Jim Carrington, the 6-foot-2 guard opening wide holes for them to hit, but when the chips were down, the Notre Damers put a cork in the bottle.

Michigan Rolls Over Minnesota

MINNEAPOLIS — (AP) — Michigan's speed, power and deception were more than Minnesota could handle yesterday as the Wolverines scored a 21 to 0 victory over the Gophers in a Western conference football game.

Michigan narrowly missed adding a fourth touchdown. With but nine seconds of play remaining in the fourth period and the ball on the Gopher one-foot line, the Wolverines failed to punch through the Gopher line.

Early in the game it appeared that Minnesota was going to give Michigan a real tussle, and the Wolverines led only 7 to 0 at half time. But Michigan came back stronger in the second half to score in the third period and then put on the clincher in the final quarter.

Off-tackle plays, with Chalmers Elliott, sub right half, carrying the ball, produced Michigan's first two touchdowns. A 32-yard pass, Gene Derricote to Bob Mann, added the third.

HIRAM—(AP)—Rio Grande college, having its biggest season in years, scored its fourth straight victory yesterday with a 20-6 job over Hiram college.

Rocco Dibari of New Lexington, who scored two touchdowns and made several long runs, sparked the winners. Hiram's best was a 67-yard run by Charles Bechtold of Pittsburgh, although it made no score.

BLACK KNIGHTS PUSHED BY WEST VIRGINIA

By WHITNEY MARTIN

WEST POINT, N. Y.—(AP)—The Army football team made it No. 25 yesterday. Not a dazzling, scintillating 25th straight victory, but the 19 to 0 triumph over West Virginia was convincing enough and the opposition was spirited enough to keep the capacity crowd of 25,500 in Michie stadium thoroughly interested, and just the thing to sharpen the Cadets for their classic with Notre Dame next week.

It was the final home appearance of Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard, famed touchdown twins, and seven other Army starters, and, as might be expected with the thoughts turned ahead a week, it was far from the best performance.

The Cadets on the whole played in flashes, sputtering and wheezing and fumbling their way along and then bursting into an offensive roar like a balky engine finally getting the spark.

Blanchard scored one touchdown on a 46-yard dash through left tackle in the second period, and Davis contributed one by taking a seven-yard toss from Arnold Tucker in a corner of the end zone in the third. Otherwise their often brilliant offensive maneuvers failed to pay off, with Blanchard guilty of inopportune fumbles on occasion. Hank Goldberg scored the first touchdown in the first period, taking an eight-yard pass from Tucker in the end zone.

Army apparently started under the theory that it would try to win without Blanchard or Davis. They were in the lineup, but the ball carrying chores were left to Ug Fuson the first time the Cadets got the ball.

That didn't work. Army quickly found the Mountaineers apparently had never heard of the might of Earl Blaik's Black Knights. They asked no quarter and gave none. And the next time the Cadets got the ball they put Blanchard and Davis to work.

Taking a punt of his 40, Davis skipped back 20 yards to launch the drive. He then added ten more around his right end, and Blanchard bulled his way through the middle for 22 more to put the ball on the Mountaineer eight, from where Tucker flipped to Foldberg for the counter.

The rousing West Virginia offense permitted the Mountaineers to keep possession of the ball much of the first period and kept the Army offense at a waiting stage. The West Virginians, in fact, took the play away from the Cadets and with a vivid passing offense carried the ball to the Army 11. A penalty set them back five yards, and Davis intercepted a pass on the goal line to check the threat as the period ended.

Still deep in their own territory early in the second period, Army finally awakened. Starting on their own one, the Cadets had a touchdown in three plays. Tucker passed to Davis on the West Virginia 48. Davis picked up six more and then Blanchard went the rest of the way.

Indiana Walks Over Miami.

BLOODINGTON, Ind. — (AP) — Indiana university's cross country team won its third straight meet here yesterday by defeating Miami university of Oxford, O., 20 to 35.

Southern Salifornia Wallops Oregon, 43-0.

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—The University of Southern California bowled Oregon out of the undefeated ranks yesterday, handing the once-tied Webfoot team a 43-0 walloping in a Pacific Coast conference game before 45,885 grid fans.

Ringing up seven touchdowns, three of them in the third quarter and two in the final frame, the thundering Trojans rolled up the biggest score in the two schools' rivalry since USC defeated Oregon 53-0 in 1931.

Cage Leagues Meet at YMCA

A meeting of the junior and senior church basketball leagues has been called for Monday night at the YMCA at 7:30 o'clock, John Fike, athletic instructor announced yesterday.

A deadline will be set at this time for entry into the cage loop and rules will be discussed. Referees will be selected at the meeting.

In the senior league which will play on Tuesday nights, the Park Avenue Baptist, First Presbyterian, Mayflower, First Lutheran, Ontario Community and St. Mthews churches have signed.

Congregational, First Lutheran, First Presbyteran, and Grace Gospel teams will enter the junior loop. Fike said he could use four more hardwood quintets in this league.

Wednesday the Commercial "B" basketball league will hold a meeting at the YMCA at 7:30 p. m. to discuss whether a player will be permitted to enter both the church league and the Commercial "B" loop.

In an earlier meeting it was decided that anyone in the City "A" league would be ruled ineligible for the "B" loop.

Ohio Public Service, Dominion Electric, Veterans Administration, Barnes Manufacturing company, Shelby and two teams without backers have already started practicing.

Otterbein Swamps Capital 50-6 At Homecoming Game.

COLUMBUS— (AP)—Otterbein's passing and charging Cadinals swamped an outclassed Capital university football team yesterday, 50 to 6, before a homecoming crowd of 2,500.

Only an unexpected fourth-period touchdown by Ortman and a scoreless second period relieved the steady parade of Otterbein touchdowns. Otterbein scored on the fourth play and then almost at will as they pressed the outweighed Lutherans back farther and farther.

Miami Redskins Jolt Bradley From Unbeaten Ranks, 35 To 6

OXFORD, O.—(AP)—Miami university's Redskins jolted Bradley university out of the ranks of the nation's unbeaten, untied football elevens here yesterday, thumping the Braves from Peoria, Ill., 36 to 6, before approximately 7,500 fans.

It was the sixth straight gridiron triumph for Coach Sid Gillman's Redskins, who have lost only to Purdue this season, and marked the first loss in six starts for Coach A. J. Robertson's Braves.

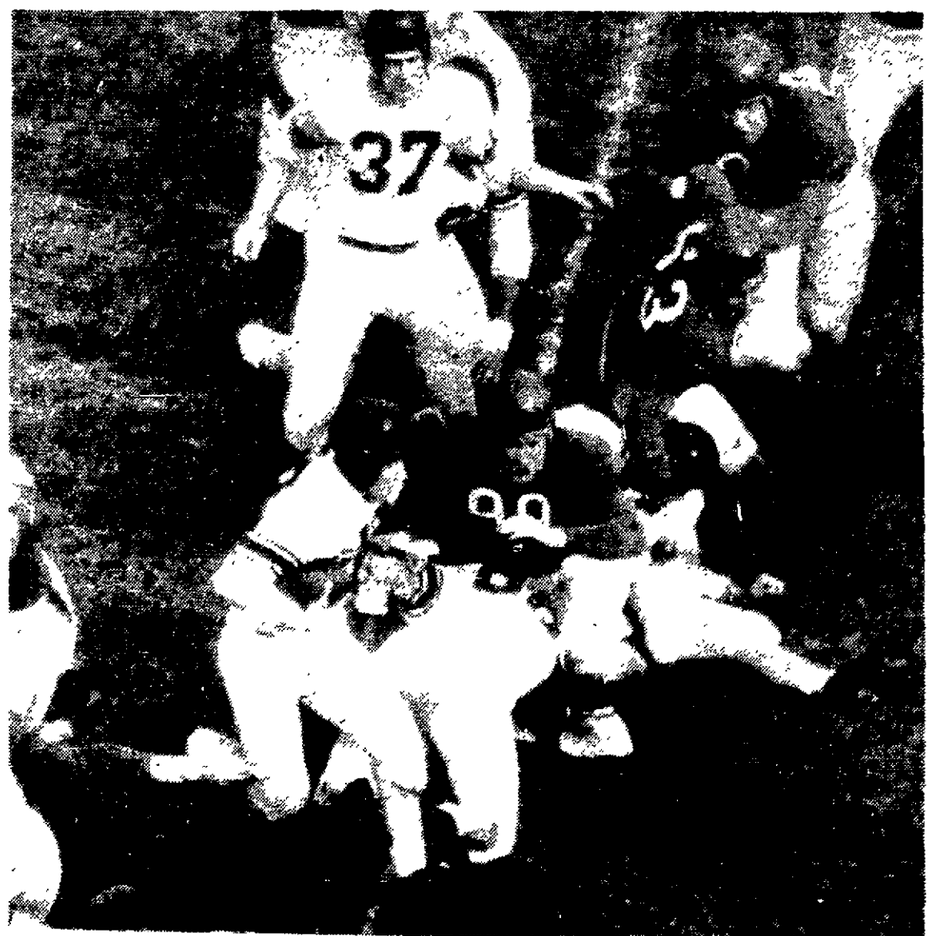
Miami drove 45 and 63 yards for two of its touchdowns, and turned three Bradley fumbles into three more TD's. Tom Cole, a sub quarterback from Lakewood, O., pumped five out of five conversion efforts through the goal posts to give him a season record of 23 out of 25 extra points.

The Redskins took a poor Bradley punt in the first quarter and drove 45 yards for their first score, Wayne Gibson, a sub fullback, crashing over from the two.

Tackle Bill McCormick gave the Redskins their second chance in the same period, recovering the first of Bradley's three costly fumbles on the Braves' 33-yard line. Halfback Paul Shoults of Washington Courthouse, topped off this drive, rambling over from the three-yard line.

A second Bradley miscue, early in the second half, was recovered by Miami's End Bill Hoover on the visitors' eight, and Shoults rambled over the double stripe for his second six-pointer.

A third Bradley bobble was grabbed up by Tackle Marx LeCompte of Miami on the Bradley 44, late in the third quarter. Halfback Ara Parseghian of Akron stepped through a broken field and raced all the way across the goal, but a clipping penalty set Miami back to the Braves' 36. The Redskins then drove 36 yards in six plays, and Gibson went over again ripping across from the five.



NORTHWESTERN FINDS AN OPENING—Halfback Frank Aschenbrenner carries the ball for a Northwestern gain of five yards in the first period yesterday at Evanston, as Ohio State defenders, Tackle Warren Amling (90), Guard Robert Gaudio (63), and Guard Hal Dean (84), are blocked out. No. 37 is Halfback Vic Schwall of Northwestern.—(AP wirephoto.)

BULLDOGS WIN EASILY 14-0 OVER ALABAMA

By CHICK HOSCH

ATHENS, Ga. — (AP) — Charlie Trippi, running, passing and plunging like a man possessed, steered Georgia's unbeaten Bulldogs through a battling Alabama Crimson Tide for a 14-0 victory yesterday.

A capacity crowd of 50,000 saw the ever dangerous Trippi, bothered to some extent by "charley-horses" all season, hit his full stride while Georgia stopped the famous passing arm of Harry Gilmer. The Bulldogs batted down six of Gilmer's heaves and intercepted the other two he tossed.

A drizzling rain which fell before the game and through most of the second half, held the offensive games of the two arch rivals pretty well in check.

Georgia led in first downs, 12 to 9, and Alabama was ahead in net yards rushing, 163 to 139. The Bulldogs completed seven of 14 passes for 110 yards, none in the second half, while the Tide had no completions in nine attempts.

In the first half, the Bulldogs threatened continuously and held a 14-0 lead at intermission. The first score came when Dick McPhee intercepted Gilmer's initial pass after six minutes of play. McPhee lateralled to John Donaldson, who hauled out down the sideline for 44 yards before stepping out on the Alabama 13.

On fourth down, Trippi passed nine yards to Dan Edwards in the end zone, who made a diving catch after Hal Self had batted it skyward attempting to knock it down.

With one minute of the half remaining, Trippi broke around end 46 yards for a score, topping off a 79-yard drive. A 33-yard pass Trippi to John Rauch, preceded the scoring run. Joe Tereshinski, who went up for the ball with Rauch, tackled his teammate as they came down.

The Tide, last team to defeat the Bulldogs, winning by 28-14 last season, was never a serious threat and never got beyond Georgia's 23-yard line. A "half-the-distance" penalty put Alabama on the Bulldog 29 early in the third period but the drive was stopped at the 23. In the first period, Alabama went to the Georgia 25 after a 15-yard penalty but the Bulldogs held.

CLINTON D. BOYD

Second Republican candidate for member of the Ohio supreme court is Clinton D. Boyd, of Middletown, Butler county.

Boyd, 62, was born at Mt. Orab, Brown county. He attended public schools in his community, and in 1908 was graduated from Miami university, Oxford. He was graduated from the University of Michigan law school in 1910.

Boyd has practiced law in Middletown since 1910, except while serving on the bench. He was common pleas judge from 1929 to 1937, and also has served as non-resident judge in Cincinnati, Toledo and other Ohio cities.

He is a member of the American Judicature society.

CHARLES B. ZIMMERMAN
For Supreme Court

Judge Charles B. Zimmerman, a Democrat, is seeking re-election to the supreme court of Ohio on the non-partisan judicial ticket.

Judge Zimmerman was appointed to the supreme court in 1933 by Gov. White, and was elected to the bench in 1934. He was re-elected in 1940.

Born in Springfield, he is 55 years old. He was educated at Wittenberg college, and received a law degree at the Harvard Law school.

He is past president of the Springfield Kiwanis club, the Columbus Torch club, and is a member of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Judge Zimmerman is married and is the father of three children.

JUDGE CHARLES S. BELL
For Supreme Court.

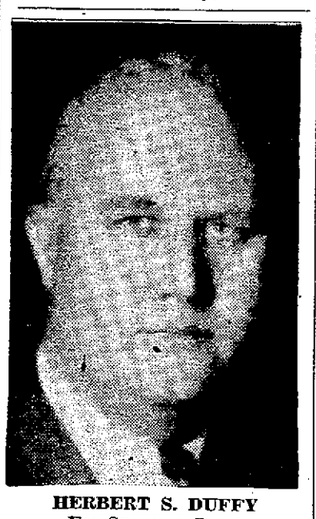
Judge Charles S. Bell is the Republican candidate for re-election to the supreme court of Ohio. He previously was elected to the court in November, 1942.

Judge Bell was born in Hartwell, O., Oct. 8, 1880. He attended the public schools at Carthage until the death of his father in 1896.

While working he entered night school and was admitted to the bar in 1908. He opened a law practice in 1910.

In 1911 he was named assistant solicitor of Carthage, and in 1919 entered the prosecuting attorney's office. In 1926 he was elected to the common pleas court in Hamilton county, and served in that capacity until he became a member of the supreme court.

Judge Bell is president of the Samuel W. Bell Home for the Blind and is active in many civic organizations.



HERBERT S. DUFFY

During World War I he served as a pilot with the United States Naval Air corps.

In 1927 he was an instructor of law of agency at the Cleveland law school. He is the author of two books, "The Life of William Howard Taft," published in 1930, and "The Treasure Chest," published in 1930.

Galion Vet Cubs Entertain Chardon

GALION — Galion Vet Cubs entertain the powerful Chardon Merchants this afternoon in a semi-pro football game at Heise park at 2:30 o'clock.

Proceeds from the gridiron battle will go to the players of both teams. All the squad members are World War II veterans.

'Hitler-Like' Group Jailed In Atlanta

ATLANTA —(AP)— Four members of Columbians, Inc., an anti-Negro secret order accused by police of trying to usurp their powers and by civic group spokesmen of being "hate-preaching" and "Hitler-like," landed in jail today on charges of "inciting a riot."

Police swooped down on a demonstration against a Negro family moving into a house formerly occupied by white tenants and jailed the four on verbal, on-the-scene orders of Chief M. A. Hornsby.

With little ado, the four were hustled by police car to headquarters, booked on the formal charge of "disorderly conduct—inciting a riot," and held in default of $5,000 bond each.

They were docketed as Homer L. Loomis, jr., 32; James M. Akins, 18; Jack Price, 27, and R. L. Whitman, 33. All except Whitman, the police said, gave local headquarters of the order as their address.

Give Your Faithful Ford a Break!
It Will Be In Friendly Hands In Our Modern Shop

When having a car serviced or repaired, even if only for a lubrication, it is very important to know the man you have do it. Is he firmly established, with a reputation for square dealing? You must really see the building and facilities in which this work is done to fully appreciate why working conditions such as these help to make "First Class Jobs". MARKET CLOSES BEST WEEK IN PAST 3 MONTHS

Utilities, Rails Take Lead In Last-Minute Upswing As Bidding Resumes.

NEW YORK — (AP) — The stock market yesterday stepped out of its widest recovery week in three months with utilities and rails leading a last-minute upswing on expanding volume

The list had to contend with considerable profit cashing until the final quarter hour of the short session brought a resumption of bidding.

Brokers, as throughout the week, credited demand mainly to growing Wall street political optimism, earnings, dividends and belief that more of a technical revival was likely.

Gains of fractions to 2 or more points were well in the majority at the close Transfers were 690,000 shares

Prominent on the upside of the concluding session were Johns-Manville, ahead 2⅞ at 127⅝. American Can 1¾ at 85¼. North American 1¼ at 28. American Water Works 1¼ at 17½. American Telephone 1 at 168½. Southern Pacific 1 at 46¼. Union Pacific 1 at 129 and Twin City Rapid Transit 1¼ at 16 (on the first dividend since 1931)

In front were Electric Power & Light, Public Service of N J, N Y Central, Northern Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, U S Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, U S Rubber, Woolworth, Douglas Aircraft, Kennecott and Standard Oil (N. J.) Declines were posted for Santa Fe, Goodrich, Western Union "A," du Pont and American Smelting.

OHIO VOTERS BACKING GOP, CLAIMS POLL

43-County Newspaper Survey Reveals Indication of Republican Landslide.

The current newspaper poll put him ahead of Herbert in only six of the 15 counties They were Cuyahoga, Summit, Mahoning Butler, Belmont and Tuscarawas.

The governor's most costly loss, if correctly reflected by the poll, is in his home county of Cuyahoga according to the newspapers He polled only 52.7 per cent there in contrast to 67 8 per cent two years ago.

The poll reported his majority in Cuyahoga county may drop to about 20,000 In 1944 he carried the county by 192 060 some 80,000 more than his winning majority in the state as a whole.

In the race for U S senator, the Republican nominee, John W Bricker, will be swept into office by a heavy majority rivaling those he marked up in his last two successful races for governor, according to the poll

The newspapers reported U S Sen. James W. Huffman the Democratic candidate, came out ahead in only one major county—Mahoning. Bricker held a fractional lead in normally Democratic Cuyahoga county, the poll indicated

Record 'Off-Year' Vote Foreseen for County In Tuesday Election

Total of 29,000 Ballots Believed Likely To Be Cast In Richland Contests.

By PHILIP GREENE

With political campaigning aimed at winning the electoral battles at an end, prospects appeared good today that a record total of votes for an "off-year" election would be cast Tuesday.

Leaders and observers saw a vote total in Richland county reaching up to the 29,000 level, only 4,000 under the vote in 1944 when presence of presidential candidates on the the ballots induced many voters to exercise their privilege.

Voting booths will be open from 6:30 a. m. to 6:30 p. m., George C. Balliett, chairman of the board of elections, said.

Leading observers to believe that the vote will be heavy for an off-year was the unusually large number of Richland countians who are registered with the board of elections. This year there are 22,975 registered voters, a gain of 1,123 over the 21,852 persons registered last fall and 632 more than qualified for the election of 1944.

While only the city building, the banks and the bars will close their doors, retail stores and factories are expected to give their employes time off in order to cast their ballots. The banks and the city building will close at noon. Bars may sell only 3.2 beer from one hour before the polls open until one hour after they close.

Principal interest in the election campaign centered in the contest for governor between Frank J. Lausche, Democratic candidate for re-election, and Thomas J. Herbert, former Republican attorney general, and the U. S. senatorial race between former Gov. John W. Bricker, GOP nominee, and James W. Huffman, Democratic incumbent.

Of particular interest to Richland county and Mansfield voters is the contest between Wesley W. Purdy, Democratic Mansfield contractor who is running for congress in the 17th district, and his Republican opponent, J. Harry McGregor, now in office.

In addition to other state candidates, officials at the county level are also to be elected, namely county commissioner and county auditor. Incumbent C. L. Shoup, Republican, and Lewis L. Rinehart, Democrat, are opposing each other for the commissioner's office while County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe, Democrat, is unopposed for election to the office he now holds.

* * *

Levies Hold Interest.

Still another factor attracting voter interest is the presentation of 11 tax levies and one bond issue for ballot approval. Nine of the levies are for school operating funds, one is to finance Mansfield's proposed recreation program, and the other is to provide revenue to continue lighting the

TB DIRECTOR ASKS 3 COUNTY SANATORIUM

Dr. Oren Beatty Recommends Project to Serve Larger Area Than Richland.

A modern tuberculosis sanatorium large enough to serve Richland, Ashland, and Crawford counties was recommended yesterday by Dr. Oren A. Beatty, medical director of the Richland county TB sanatorium.

Dr. Beatty said the Ashland County Medical society had endorsed the tri-county sanatorium plan.

Richland county commissioners already have plans for a proposed 49-bed Richland county hospital to be built on State Route 39 southeast of Mansfield. A $300,000 bond issue for the project was voted last fall, but commissioners have found they probably can't build the sanatorium for that amount

* * *

Cheaper To Operate.

"A larger sanatorium would be much more economical to operate. would serve a much larger segment of the population that needs it, and would be much more acceptable to officials of the state department of health," Dr. Beatty said.

"I have it unofficially from the state health department that it strongly prefers district sanatoriums that will serve from two to five counties. I agree that a larger hospital should be constructed," Dr. Beatty said.

The Ashland County Medical society Friday night passed a resolution endorsing a tri-county sanatorium, to be located in Richland county, and voted to recommend to the Ashland county commissioners that they place a bond issue before their voters to finance the project.

The action and Dr. Beatty's remarks came one year, almost to the day, after Richland countians voted an 87 per cent majority in favor of building a new $300,000 county sanatorium.

* * *

Oppose Larger Project.

However, Richland county's commissioners have been opposed to building a larger sanatorium because, under state law, its control would be taken out of the hands of the commissioners.

Several weeks ago C. L. Shoup, chairman of the commissioners, announced that he and the other two commissioners, John W. Selby and Guy F. Stewart, were opposed to turning the sanatorium over to a board of trustees be-

St. Peter's Centenary Ends Today

The centennial celebration of St. Peter's Catholic church will reach its climax today when two bishops, eight monsignori and nearly 50 other priests assist the local clergy and congregation in marking the 100th anniversary of the founding of the parish. An overflow crowd is expected for both the pontifical high mass at 11 a. m. today and the confirmation exercises at 7:30 p. m.

The pontifical high mass, which will be celebrated by the Most Rev. Karl J. Alter, Bishop of Toledo, is one of the most solemn and colorful ceremonies in the liturgy of the Catholic church. St. Peter's choir, consisting of 120 male voices directed by Raymond E. Baum, choirmaster, has been rehearsing the special music for weeks.

The centennial sermon will be preached by the Most Rev. Michael J. Ready, Bishop of Columbus and a former member of St. Peter's parish.

* * *

EX-ASSISTANT PASTOR DEACON OF HONOR

Deacons of honor for the pontifical mass will be Rev. R. V. O'Connor, pastor of Good Shepherd Church, Toledo, and a former assistant pastor of St. Peter's parish; and the Very Rev. Clement Geppert, M. S. C. Superior of the Sacred Heart Seminary at Shelby.

Rev. M. J. Doyle, Diocesan Director of Charities, and another former assistant pastor of St. Peter's, will be the deacon of the mass. Rev. Timothy M. Downey, assistant pastor of St. Peter's will be the sub-deacon.

Girl Injured On Eve of Her Confirmation

Dorothy Marie Moyer, 9, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Moyer, 194 Helen avenue, is keeping her finger crossed "hard" today.

Struck by a car yesterday, Dorothy thought surely the accident would prevent her from being confirmed tonight at St. Peter's Catholic church with the other children in her class.

That's why she's keeping those fingers crossed — and following doctors order to a "T." If she obeys to the letter, the doc thinks she'll be all right by tonight.

She suffered bruises and lacerations when she was hit by a car as she alighted from a bus at Helen avenue and West Fourth street.

OPTICAL FIRM OFFICIAL AND CASHIER HELD

Suspect Implicates Others; Police Call 9-State Alarm for One.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Kings county assistant district attorney, Julius Helfand, yesterday announced the arrest of Isadore Rappaport, 55, New York optical company official, on three charges in connection with the alleged embezzlement of some $832,000 from the Mergenthaler Linotype company.

Rappaport was taken from the district attorney's office to a Brooklyn police station where he was booked on charges of grand larceny and forgery and conspiracy to commit grand larceny and forgery.

Helfand said Rappaport would be arraigned in Brooklyn felony court tomorrow morning.

Helfand identified Rappaport as president of the Ultima Optical Instrument company, and said he was named in connection with the purported embezzlement by William Arthur Nickel, Mergenthaler cashier, now under arrest in Miami and awaiting extradition to New York.

District Attorney Miles McDonald said late last night that a second man was being questioned at his office. No details were given.

In Miami, Nickel, 40, was turned over to New York authorities as a fugitive from justice after Assistant District Attorney Joseph P. Hoey reported he had admitted his part and implicated "three or four others."

None of the "three or four," Hoey said, is employed by Mergenthaler.

Brooklyn police, meantime, broadcast a nine-state alarm, also sent to Palm Springs and Los Angeles, Calif., police, asking detention of another New York resident.

YOUNG MOTHER FATALLY HURT

ASHLAND—An effort to avoid striking a heavy log being pulled behind a farmer's tractor caused the death late today of Mrs. Gordon Brukhart, 22-year-old mother.

Mrs. Brukhart, driving to her home on the Wooster road east of Ashland, was fatally injured when her automobile turned over twice on Route 89, a short distance north of U. S. Route 42.

She died in an ambulance enroute to a hospital. Dr. A. D. Lewis of Jeromesville, county coroner, said she suffered a broken neck and a fractured skull.

Mrs. Brukhart, the former Helen Mae Davidson of Savannah, was driving her 1941 Chevrolet sedan south on Route 89 about 4:30 p. m. She came over a rise on the highway as Carl Yeley, 41, was turning into his farm the tractor with which he was dragging a log.

Chief Deputy Sheriff William Schindler said Mrs. Brukhart apparently lost control of her car as she slammed on the brakes and the automobile turned over twice. Mrs. Brukhart was thrown clear of the vehicle.

The accident occurred six and a half miles northeast of Ashland.

Mr. and Mrs. Brukhart were married seven years ago.

Mrs. Brukhart leaves besides her husband her daughter, Susan Jean, 3; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Davidson of near Savannah; a brother, Floyd of Savannah, and her grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Copeland of Ashland.

She was a member of the Savannah Federated church, where funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. in charge of Rev. E. K. Barss. The body was taken to Denbow-Bear funeral home in Ashland, where friends may call from 7 to 9 p. m.

SCHOOL ISSUES HELP SPUR OHIOANS TO VOTE

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Predictions of victory came from headquarters of both the Democrats and Republicans last night as the campaign for votes in Tuesday's Ohio election neared a close.

In a last minute prediction the office of Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel revised upward its estimate of the vote from 2,000,000 to 2,215,000. An announcement that record-breaking number of 607 school bond issues and tax levies was on the ballot prompted the forecast of the additional turnout.

The pre-election forecasts read:

Clarence H. Knisley, Democratic campaign director—"the reports coming from reliable sources show that Gov. Frank J. Lausche will again carry his home county of Cuyahoga by a tremendous majority. Along with a large margin in at least 24 other counties, his majority will be sufficient to put the Democrats on top. All poll re-checks we have heard about show an upswing for the Democrats."

Fred H. Johnson, Republican state chairman—"After careful analysis of reports from every county, I predict the election of the entire Republican state ticket as well as pronounced gains for the Republicans in congressional and county contests. Tom Herbert, for governor, and John Bricker, for United States senator, will win by wide margins. The result, from top to bottom, will be definitely and distinctly Republican. The New Deal will be done in Ohio."

As the rival candidates for governor and U. S. senator were concentrating their attention on Cleveland and northern Ohio yesterday, a Democratic state official whose office is not at stake in Tuesday's election delivered a blast from the capital.

State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson in a formal statement described as "ridiculous" a claim by Herbert that 5,000 employes had been added to the state pay roll during Governor Lausche's administration.

He said that " a few hundred employes" had been added to bolster the welfare and highway departments. These departments, the auditor asserted, provided a "national disgrace" during the preceding Republican administration.

BOTH PARTIES CLAIM IT'S 'IN THE BAG'

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The 1946 battle of the ballots produced for the first time last night an unqualified claim from the Democratic command that Tuesday's election will tighten their grip on senate and house. Republicans voiced confidence that control of both branches of congress surely will shift to them.

With the issues sharply defined and minds of a multitude of voters made up during weeks of heavy campaigning, Democratic National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan revised upward previous forecasts that his party would hang on to majorities in senate and house.

Republican Chairman Carroll Reece declared as confidently in another statement:

"The congress to be elected on Tuesday will be a Republican congress."

As the campaign started briskly down the stretch, efforts diminished on both sides to swing votes by oratorial outpourings. President Truman continued mum at his home in Iedependence, Mo.

Issues making this off-year election campaign one of the hottest in recent history have been the shortage of meat and other things consumers want, controls over prices, the possibility of another coal strike.

In state after state, those have been key issues. In addition, the candidates are fighting it out over many other points. For instance:

Republicans charge there is an alliance between the Democrats and communists, as well as between the Democrats and the CIO-Political Action Committee. Democrats say they don't want and don't deserve communist backing.

The GOP promises to cut expenses and lower taxes if it takes over congress. The Democrats accuse the Republicans of trying to sabotage what they call a constructive program begun by President Roosevelt and continued by President Truman.

The Republicans appeal to the people to put them in control to end "corruption" in government. The Democrats cry it would be bad to erect in congress "a house divided against itself."

The outcome will be determined by an estimated 59,669,656 persons qualified to vote. Figures from state and political leaders indicate more than 35,000,000 actually will turn up at the polls.

To break the Democratic hold on congress, the Republicans need a net gain of 10 senate and 26 house seats.

MORE MINERS WALK OFF JOB

WASHINGTON —(AP)— More bituminous miners quit work by the hundreds today in connection with John L. Lewis' new contract negotiations while the operators protested that any further wage concessions would price coal right out of the fuel market.

William Blizzard, president of the United Mine Workers District 17 in West Virginia, said the walkout "is spreading, but we are doing all we can to prevent it."

Reports from management and union sources indicated some 10,000 miners were idle in West Virginia and Pike county, Kentucky, with others idle in Tennessee. Scores of mines were shut down and absenteeism hampered some still operating.

With the wage talks between the administration and Lewis in recess until Monday, a National Coal association statement said "our whole national economy trembles in jeopardy" while the government and the "big boss of the United Mine Workers play a game of checkers with a three-billion-dollar industry."

Both the union and the government said they expect the closed mines to reopen Monday. But John D. Battle, executive secretary of the Coal association, declared there may be an epidemic of stoppages to block any accumulation of coal reserves.

Stork to Set Record At General Hospital

By NITA BRANSON

The Stork has been working overtime at the Mansfield General hospital.

Back in 1931, when Dr. A. O. Fonkalsrud, superintendent, came to Mansfield the prolific bird delivered an average of less than one baby a day. Today, he's upped production to more than 100 babies a month. Some days, there have been as many as eleven births in a 24 hour period.

"When I came here 15 years ago," Dr. Fonkalsrud recalls, "we had only 239 babies for the entire year. This year for the first nine months we had an even thousand. And it looks now as if we'll have more than 1,300 births in the hospital for this year."

A check of back records discloses that for the first four years of Dr. Fonkalsrud's regime, births totaled only 25 more than they did through September of this year." That's an all-time high.

* * *

"When I came here," Dr. Fonkalsrud explains, "the OB department was quite small. I felt that the student nurses were not getting sufficient training in obstetrics. And furthermore, I firmly believe that a woman should have the best care there is during confinement. I am decidedly inter-

BANKS CLEAR RECORD AMOUNT

More money changed hands in Mansfield last month than in any other month in the city's history, bank clearings reaching an all-time high of $16,208,746, W. R. McCullough, secretary of the Clearing House association, reported yesterday.

Big industrial and business payrolls and booming retail sales were credited by bankers with pushing the clearings up.

Clearings were more than $4,000,000 ahead of October last year and topped the previous high, reported last August, by $1,174,064.

So far this year, Mansfield banks have cleared $141,153,965 as compared with $114,796,715, Clearing House figures showed.

SEVEN INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Seven persons from Mansfield, Shelby and Willard were injured, three probably seriously, in a two-car, head-on collision around mid-night on the Shelby-Mansfield road.

Injured were Verne Long, Mansfield, driver of one car; R. C. Shaffer, Shelby; Roy Billotte, Mansfield; Sherm Wills, Shelby, and John Korbas, all passengers in Long's car; and Carl Fowler, Willard, and Leone Strimble, Willard.

At 1:30 a. m. today doctors at Mansfield General hospital could not provide details on the injuries.

Long said the accident occurred on well-known "Dead Man's" curve about three miles from Mansfield. He said that after the two cars met, Fowler's car plunged into a guard rail.

Hospital officials later said Long, 50, and Billott, 33, were least seriously injured. Long lives at 60½ South Weldon avenue and Billott on R. D. 3.

Wells' age was given as 35, Shaffer, 51, and Korbas, 42.

Bishop Sees Cost of Living Wage Formula As Key To Peace In Capital-Labor Dispute

Belief that a wage formula based on the cost of living would eliminate strikes was expressed yesterday by the Most. Rev. Karl J. Alter, bishop of Toledo.

Here to officiate at the centennial celebration of St. Peters church, Bishop Alter gave a practical wording to the ethical formula for industrial peace formulated by a group of Catholic, Protestant and Jewish churchmen who met recently in Washington.

Bishop Alter participated in the conference as head of the social action department of the Catholic Church of America.

"The best solution to the current disagreement between management and labor would be a formula whereby wages are automatically adjusted to the cost of living," he said.

"Unfortunately," there is at present no formula except that of wages and dividends. The owners get the dividends and the workers get wages which are fixed.

"There should be a mutuality of interests between labor and management. Our present system does not permit that mutuality of interests. Most of our conflict and instability arise from the problem of distributive profits."

Labor, he thinks, must increase efficiency if production is to keep pace with demand.

"It is to the worker's own interest to better production," he declared. "As of 1940, five men were doing the work which four could do. It would be economic suicide to continue in that way. You can't distribute what you haven't got. More labor efficiency would get the cost down and benefit everybody."

Bishop Alter has just as positive opinions about world peace.

"There is a great deal of talk," he said, "about the brotherhood of man. But we can't achieve the brotherhood of man until we have accepted the fatherhood of God. We take up the second commandment but ignore the first upon which the second is founded."

"I venture a judgment," he concluded, "that although there will be many rumors of wars and many impasses, I'm inclined to think that war can be avoided."

The four-day celebration will come to a close at 7:30 p. m. when Bishop Alter will administer the Sacrament of Confirmation to a class of 125 adults and 300 children. The 425 members of the class, each with his own individual sponsor, will march into the church shortly before 7:30 p. m.

cause control then would not be in the hands of elected officials. A hospital of 50 beds or more would be administered by trustees.

"A larger hospital would have many more resources in obtaining technical personnel and facilities. A larger institution would be in better position to develop a worthwhile rehabilitation program, which is always a big problem for small hospitals, and occupational therapy," Dr. Beatty said.

"It must also be considered that a small sanatorium would eventually be competing against large state-operated hospitals which are being planned by Ohio. At least four 200-bed state hospitals, as well as another large one in connection with Ohio State university, are contemplated by the state," the director told his audience.

Proposals for building a tri-county sanatorium have arisen several times recently and have been stimulated by the delays Richland county has experienced in construction of its proposed new hospital.

At present the commissioners are awaiting approval of their sanatorium plans by the Civilian Production administration.

ested in the welfare of babies and their mothers.

"There are two lives at stake in the birth of a baby—the mother's and the child's. We should be careful to the utmost in dealing with these two lives."

Rates Lowered.

Feeling as he did about the matter, Dr. Fonkalsrud immediately set the hospital maternity care rate low enough so that hospital service at such a time might be available to every prospective mother. He began telling the doctors about the lowered rate and they in turn told their patients.

Originally, there was space for 30 tiny cribs. Until recent years, that was more than adequate.

But, when the stork began delivering babies almost faster than space was provided, a ward, previously used for mothers, was turned into a third nursery.

Today there is room for 48 babies and their are times when every tiny crib is filled with its small, precious bit of humanity.

* * *

Vigorous Demands.

The other day when this story was being "birthed," it was feeding time in the nurseries. From almost everyone of those 48 cribs, came demands for food in no uncertain terms. Little legs kicked off the covers in anger and tiny arms waved their protest against empty stomachs.

The babies have been divided into these three separate wards, because it lessens the chance for for contagion, according to Dr. Fonkalsrud.

"Babies," he said, "are particularly subject to contagious diseases. We try to safeguard them by not having too many in one nursery."

The taking of one maternity ward for an additional nursery has meant crowded conditions elsewhere for the mothers. Yet in spite of the necessary expansion and slight crowding, the hospital has been able to maintain its state department of health requirements. It still manages, in spite of the stork's repeated visits, to keep within the regulations set up by that department for hospitals the size of Mansfield's, Dr. Fonkalsrud emphasizes.

NO NEED FOR DESPONDENCY, BEVIN STATES

Foreign Secretary Calls for 'Care, Patience' In Treaties.

NEW YORK—(AP)—British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin declared last night there is no need for despondency over big four efforts to write a final peace for Europe and called for "care, patience and tolerance," in formulating treaties for the five vanquished satellites of Nazi Germany.

Arriving aboard the Aquitania for the four-power foreign ministers session which opens at 4 p. m. Monday to settle the peace that the United Nations is pledged to keep, Bevin said:

"We will see if we can work the treaties into permanent documents and end the state of war. One thing is quite clear and that is that everybody wants peace and is tired of conflict and turmoil."

French Deputy Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville, who also arrived on the Aquitania for the four-power meeting, said he thought the foreign ministers would first discuss a treaty with Germany "on about the 20th of November" after the treaties for Italy, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland had been concluded.

In this connection, Bevin approved a request by Belgium and the Netherlands to participate in the four-powers discussion on Germany. He declared that "the assistance of Belgium and Holland is essential to determine what we are going to do with Germany."

Although Bevin did not mention that he intended to confer immediately with Secretary of State James F. Byrnes on Anglo-American strategy in the peace deliberations, an authorized source said he would probably see the American official within 36 hours.

At a news conference upon his arrival, the stocky British diplomat said in reply to a question if he felt any pessimism as a result of difficulties the foreign ministers faced at the Paris peace conference:

"I am never optimistic, but never pessimistic. To do these things one has to keep on an even keel. One cannot expect to sail into smooth waters in a moment; there is no need to be despondent. We must carefully face the problems and understand them."

Without specifically mentioning the conflict between Russia and the western powers, Bevin said there was "a tremendous rise of nationalism, particularly in the east." He added that it was best that the older countries guide the new nations into international cooperation.

AMVETS FAVOR FEDERAL BONUS

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Two-thirds of the members of the American veterans of World War II favor a federal bonus, the organization reported Saturday on the basis of a poll conducted by its Washington headquarters. Without disclosing the number of men polled, the organization said in a statement that veterans in every section of the country voted about three to one for a bonus. No amount was mentioned.

The membership disapproved the present $200 monthly pay ceiling for recipients of on-the-job training subsistence payments, and favored a government pension for veterans of both world wars when they become 60 years old.

Approximately 80 percent of the Amvets reported their incomes not enough to meet the present cost of living, the statement noted

CHIEF TO FILE MURDER CHARGE

Police Chief Meade K. Bates said last night that he will file a murder charge against John J. Owens, 257½ North Main street, tomorrow in the death of Alonzo B. Lindsey, 25, of 266½ North Main street.

Lindsey died of a bullet wound through the heart early yesterday following a shooting fray on North Diamond street.

Chief Bates said that he will confer with County Prosecutor Theodore Lutz to determine whether first or second degree charges would be preferred.

The shooting reportedly climaxed a dispute which took place in an alley between the New Deal bakery and the Colored American Legion post

Police arrested Owens not long after Lindsey was shot. The death weapon, believed to be a 38 caliber pistol, has not been found, Bates said.

"The Nuernberg live eggs" were the first pocket watches ever made.

VETERANS ASK MEETING TO FIX HOUSING UNITS

Robert P. Spreng Amvet post 26 yesterday proposed that the Richland county commissioners call a meeting early next week to iron out allocation of veterans housing units.

It asked that the meeting include representatives of the Mansfield Metropolitan Housing Authority and all veterans organizations in the county that have professed an interest in the county housing project.

These include the Amvet post, the Garret-Reist post 503 American Legion at Shiloh and the Colored American Legion post 72 of Mansfield.

"Our main purpose is to speed action on the project," said Elden Becker, chairman of the housing committee.

The commissioners last week promised four units to Shiloh and at the request of American Legion post 72 earmarked a part of the housing funds to colored veterans.

"We want them to be satisfied so we told them to bring us suggestions for possible location of units assigned to them," C. L. Shoup, chairman of the board, said.

Children's home property facing on Bowers avenue has been selected as a tentative site for some of the housing units to be built with the $64,000 in state appropriated funds.

Shoup said the board had received complaints from some residents of the area who said they didn't want the project located there.

Members of the Amvet post housing committee said yesterday their inquiries indicated only one man in the vicinity had expressed opposition to the project.

October 28, 1946

TO EVERY MEMBER OF THE CIO:

This is a message of great urgency for every CIO member. We write you on the eve of the 1946 Congressional election, an election which will decide America's course and the fate of every American and his family. The fact is that if the American people are not to be thrust back again to depression, if we are to avoid another horrible war, if our unions are to survive, a progressive 80th Congress must be elected on November 5th.

Our opponents in this campaign, the reactionaries in both the Republican and Democratic Parties, have sought to scare the American people by a smoke screen of confusion. Although they bear responsibility for whatever confusion and shortages now exist by their butchering of OPA, housing and other vital legislation in the 79th Congress, they seek to place the blame elsewhere. This is not a new story. They have used it in past elections, unsuccessfully. The people examined the charge, rejected it and then carried the fight to the enemy.

The people, the voters, will do it again on November 5th. Our weapon is the ballot. We must use it. We have seen in the past few weeks the mobilization of those forces that were Franklin D. Roosevelt's staunchest supporters. We have taken our message, the fulfillment of the Roosevelt program, peace and prosperity, to the American people. They have accepted it.

We need to implement that acceptance at the ballot box. The only way reaction will be swept aside, will be by a huge outpouring of votes. The responsibility is that of every decent American, of every decent union member to go to the polls on November 5th and vote. And to help in getting his family, neighbors and friends to also vote.

Remember, voting is the answer to our problems. Voting is the way to a better Congress.

Sincerely and fraternally,

Must United States Finance the World?

PROPOSAL by the United Nations finance committee that the United States pay one-half of the total estimated cost of operating UN is in keeping with the idea that this country is so well heeled that it should continue to shell out millions—even billions—of dollars to rehabilitate the world.

Under recommendations by the temporary committee on finance, Great Britain is listed for 10.5 per cent; Russia 6 per cent; France 5.5 per cent; India 3.75 per cent; China 2.75, and all of the other 45 nations less than 2 per cent each.

It is estimated that the costs of operating UN will be around $20,000,000 this year, with an increase to $24,000,000 in 1947, and it is approximately half of these amounts that the United States is being asked to pay.

While, admittedly, this country is better able to provide the money, credits, food supplies and merchandise that will be needed elsewhere in the world, a question arises as to the fairness of any such drain upon Americans—and it may also be wondered how this relatively new nation progressed so amazingly as to be looked to by the entire world for continuation of handouts, especially when our system of government is so little thought of by some of the recipients of these benefactions.

Senator Vandenberg, in objecting to apportionment of one-half the UN costs being saddled on the United States, rather pointedly remarked, "If the United States economy is so good, perhaps the United Nations ought to adopt our economic system as standard practice for all of its membership."

It will remain, of course, for each of the nations to determine its own internal policies, but the extent to which the United States is being leaned upon in the effort to rehabilitate older countries, and to repair their broken down machinery, indicates that some of them might well follow the pattern we have presented, rather than that we should embark on some alien "ism" that has brought about this state of dependency.

Illness Can Be Greatly Reduced

A BASIC weakness in such sweeping measures as the Wagner-Murray-Dingell public health bill is that their supporters attempt to do too much too fast. This bill, for instance, would give the federal government all-inclusive power over medical practice, including doctors, hospitals and clinics, at a huge and untold cost, on the theory that the public health would be greatly improved.

Truth is that public health is not a matter of medical care alone. For the most part, the doctor steps into the picture when the patient becomes ill. His job is to cure. The ideal of better public health requires that the conditions which create illness be prevented. And this involves such huge problems as diet, housing, recreation, working conditions and so on down a long list.

Long strides have already been taken in bettering public health in the United States, and great progress is being made in individual and group health insurance plans which provide prepaid medical, surgical and hospital care. Voluntary activities such as these, instead of socialized medicine, point the way to further advancement of health standards in this country.

Some Other Vital Shortages

NOT ONLY a shortage of materials, but of engineers, also, is holding back American industry. Stephen R. Tyler, secretary of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, says the lack of chemical engineers is so crucial that industrial expansion will be blocked until 1950.

In the field of petroleum alone, he adds, a whole new industry has arisen without personnel to carry it forward. He blames the shortage on war interruption of undergraduate study and permitting students in these lines to be siphoned off into combat forces. Not only were thousands of these men turned from their careers, but many of the finest potential leaders among them lost their lives.

It is not only the engineers who have suffered from war. No one will ever know the extent of promise that is veiled by the casualty lists.

It was Mark Twain who said: "If you pick up a starving dog and make him prosperous he will not bite you. This is the principal difference between a dog and a man."

Bromfield Says Nation's Welfare Depends On Independent Voters

By LOUIS BROMFIELD

I AM proud of my own state of Ohio because it is perhaps the most vote-splitting state in the Union, and for a voter to split his ticket is a sign of discernment, intelligence and acceptance of the privileges and duties which go with a citizen's right to take part in the affairs of the nation. It is largely the capacity of the individual voter to make up his own mind which has made Ohio one of the most important and potent political units of the Republic. In Ohio, it is rare indeed that any party organization, local or state, is able to "deliver" a solid bloc of votes. In the past presidential election, Mr. Roosevelt lost the state and Frank Lausche, running on the same Democratic ticket, carried it by a big majority.

BROMFIELD

Ohio is today faced again not only by the opportunity but the necessity of splitting its vote. Signs of a Republican party landslide are generally conceded by all but the most partisan political observers, nevertheless the number of Ohioans who will enter the booths to vote a straight Republican ticket is still dubious.

In an off-presidential year, the question is one of splitting a ticket largely on the lines of national versus state representation. In many other states there are Democratic candidates for state office who, with a record clear of the machinations and political hog-wash of the party organization and with excellent records, deserve not only the hearty support of independent voters but of Republicans who place good citizenship above party lines.

Such a candidate is Governor Frank Lausche of my own state. His record has been excellent and he has never connived in the more shady maneuvers of the state or national Democratic organizations, nor does he partake of the general decadence of the national organization.

Party organizations exist in a Republic as a necessity and we shall never be rid of them. In themselves they are not essentially evil, and to some extent are necessary.

The evil arises only when they become dominated by men and women whose principal or only motivation is political patronage, cadging a job or obtaining an influence here or there.

Essentially these are the men and women who insist on the voter writing out a straight ticket. They are a sorry lot and in their trail follows the corruption which infects so many of our big city political machines.

The welfare of the nation and, indeed of the institution of democracy itself, lies forever with the independent voter who writes his own ticket. That is why in ordinary times any man who boasts of voting a straight ticket, either Democratic or Republican, can be mistrusted. He is either stupid or he is looking for a political job to take poor relation Aunt Minnie off his hands or perhaps to take himself off his own hands.

There was never a time in our history when it was more important for the voter to take his right to the ballot seriously. It is his title to the freedom, to the dignity, to the honor which was denied the individual citizen in Nazi Germany, in Fascist Italy and today is denied the "citizens" of Communist Russia.

The time is not far away when good, honorable and conscientious American citizens will have to stand up and be counted.

The time is indeed not far away when the nations of the world must decide whether they are going ahead with an advancing civilization or whether they are going backward into dictatorship and state domination.

Such a decision can never be determined under the dictation of party organizations which must always be infested by the gravy-hunters, the pipsqueaks, the power politicians and even at times by criminal elements.

Now is the time for every citizen to make an intelligent choice and take his vote seriously for what it is—his right to be a man or a woman. Go ahead, brother, split your vote all over the place according to what your heart and mind tells you is a decent, respectable citizen. Where, as in the election of candidates for congress, policy and the future welfare of the nation is at stake, there is not much choice. The national Democratic organization has made it so. But at home in the state, the choice is still an open one.

Pre-Election Check On Republican Candidates Is Advised By Pearson

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — One healthy thing about a democracy is that it puts its public servants under intense public scrutiny. If the investigating committees of congress and the newspapermen of Washington are on their toes, they can usually ferret out the things that are bad about a congressman, while the good things shine out on their own like a beacon light. Thus the shocking war-contract operations of Mississippi's Senator Bilbo, the amazing war lobbying of Kentucky's Congressman May, the cotton speculation of Senator Elmer Thomas' family—all Democrats—are now well known.

PEARSON

But one of democracy's difficulties is that an electorate frequently does not have time to scrutinize a new candidate before he is swept into office.

Last week, for instance, this column called attention to the fact that GOP candidate Fred Danner of Akron, Ohio, now seeking to draw pay from the federal government as a congressman, had not thought enough of his federal government to pay it taxes during 1939, 1940 and 1941.

However, this column was remiss. It was not able at that time to dig up all the facts. Here are some more:

Despite Mr. Danner's three-year rebellion against paying his own taxes, he was quite eager to print income tax blanks for other people to pay theirs. His printing office has just about finished printing $2,334,000 worth of income tax blanks for the federal government.

Mr. Danner also was able to get another nice contract from the treasury department despite his hesitation about paying it taxes. Last year he printed a million and a half illustrated war-bond promotion books which the treasury sent out to school children in order to educate them about their government, its bonds and its finances.

Thus while loath to pay taxes, candidate Danner was not loath to profit from money raised through other people's taxes.

Did Danner Cover Up?

And here are some further interesting facts about the Ohio candidate for congress which the average voter hasn't time to investigate. When Danner ran in the GOP primaries, he listed Dorothy Keck as contributing $200. That is a sizable gift—especially since Miss Keck at that time was unemployed and had even gone to Uncle Sam to get $17 a week unemployment compensation.

Danner also listed John Lebedoff as giving him $500—another sizable contribution, especially since his family appeared so hard up that Mrs. Lebedoff at that time was drawing $19 a week unemployment compensation. Furthermore neither Lebedoff nor his wife, though supposedly so strong for Danner that they gave him $500, took the trouble to vote for him.

Danner also listed $250 from M. G. Pazder, $250 from Art Burns, and $250 from Fred J. Johnson. Again these are sizable contributions. Yet these three men who allegedly gave $750 between them didn't care enough about Danner to go out and vote for him.

Danner also listed a $250 gift from Ted Furdyn. It seems strange, however, that Mr. Furdyn should give this much money to a Republican, when the records show he voted the Democratic ticket.

These facts naturally raise the question as to whether the above people really contributed the money Danner said they did, or were they just "cover-ups."

Note—Personally, this columnist has nothing against Mr. Danner, merely reports the above as an illustration of how congressional candidates need to be scrutinized in every district—before election day, not afterward. If this column had the time to investigate each candidate and state, it would gladly do so. Unfortunately, it can't. Unfortunately also, some local newspapers which could dig out the facts, don't.

Wealth vs. Labor.

Some people have asked why I have focused attention on the large amounts of cash thrown into election districts by GOP leader Joe Pew, the big Pennsylvania oil man. Isn't the money spent by PAC, they ask, just as bad?

The answer is: 1. It was tremendous amounts of cash spent by the Mellons, the Pews, the Rockefellers, et al, which finally inspired labor unions to get into political campaigns themselves. Labor didn't originate the idea. 2. While large amounts of money in any campaign are bad, it's only fair to show what both sides are doing.

In regard to this, few people have the time and money to check on large personal campaign contributions. To go over the long list of names filed in various state campaigns and with the clerk of the house of representatives takes days of stenographic work. It's also a difficult job to trace the relatives and in-laws of all the families who contribute. The individual voter simply cannot do it.

The last time this column did it, however (1940), the results were amazing. The duPont family was shown to be contributing the grand total of $186,780 to the Republican party. The Hatch Act, of course, makes it illegal for one individual to contribute more than $5,000 to one political group.

But violation of the law was avoided, first, by getting all the aunts and uncles and the cousins of the duPonts to contribute; second, by contributing to different state campaigns.

The powerful Pennsylvania Pew family, which operates Sun Oil, the Sun Ship Company, the Pathfinger, the Farm Journal and various other trade publications, donated the huge total of $108,525; the Alfred P. Sloan family of General Motors put up $36,000; the wealthy Widener family of Philadelphia gave $24,750; the Queeny family of St. Louis, which operates Monsanto Chemical, dug up $42,375; while the Pitcairn family of Pennsylvania which manufactures auto-giros, sweetened the Republican kitty with $29,114.71.

All in all, about ten powerful Republican families tossed in about $1,000,000. And you can take your pick as to whether it's healthier to have ten families dominate one party or to have $1 contributions from about 20,000,000 families in organized labor dominate the other.

Note — Donations by PAC are openly recorded, not camouflaged under a maze of relatives and in-laws.

Farmer's Diary: "What Is Man?"

FROM time to time, in this column, I have expressed my thankfulness that "every farmer, from his barnyard, can behold the stars." It seems that we all need to stretch our gaze—to give free rein to our farthest reaching thoughts. It is easy to become "fenced in" by the commonplace.

Dr. Edwin P. Hubble, of Mt. Wilson Observatory, in an article reproduced in the current issue of The Land, explores the universe with the aid of the world's largest telescope—the lens of which is 100 inches, or more than eight feet, in diameter.

Says Dr. Hubble, who is one of the most eminent astronomers alive: "From time immemorial, men studied the heavens with the unaided eyes. Finally, about three centuries ago, the telescope was invented. The one at Mt. Wilson has the light-gathering capacity of more than 200,000 human eyes.

"We observe a volume of space so vast as to be a fair sample of the universe itself. Our explorations have had three phases. Long ago we had the picture of the solar system—the sun, with its family of planets, including the earth, revolving in space. Then we descried the stellar system, where the sun was found to be a star, one of several million stars which, together, drift through space, like a swarm of bees through the air.

Now, with this largest of all telescopes, we may look out through the swarm of stars, past the boundaries, into the vastness of the universe itself. These outer regions are empty, for the most part, but scattered here and there, at immense intervals, we are able to discern other stellar systems like our own—lonely, drifting swarms of stars that inhabit space.

These are called "nebulae"—the Latin word for "clouds"—because distance makes them seem smaller and fainter than similar stars in our own immediate stellar system.

Light travels 186,000 miles per second. It reaches earth from the moon in about 1 and ⅓ seconds; from the sun in about 8 minutes; from the nearest star in about 4½ years.

But the faintest nebulae that can be reached by the largest telescope are, on the average, about 500 million light years away!

Housing Legislation Awaits New Congress.

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WASHINGTON—For members of a federal organization which just had been publicly damned as a "miserable failure," officials of the National Housing Agency were amazingly unperturbed early this week.

Furthermore, despite the outburst of Maine's Republican Senator Brewster on the subject, they didn't expect the candidates of either party to wax too hotheaded over the housing issue during these closing days of the campaign.

Right or wrong, these are the reasons they cite:

Leaders of both parties (they say) have come to almost identical conclusions about how to handle the housing problem when congress reconvenes.

Decision as to which party carries the legislative ball depends entirely (they continue) on the outcome of Tuesday's elections—but that legislation will be approximately the same in either case, due mostly to unexpected pressure from veterans.

Certainly, if this correspondent—who has seen federal officials tremble with fear at the slightest congressional frown—is any judge, the NHA employes weren't worried about the Brewster blast.

Since no one wished to lay his head on the block before the axe of an individual congressman's wrath, they requested anonymity. Once assured of it, they pleasantly insisted that Brewster's disclosure of a so-called "long-suppressed report" of the senate war investigating committee was not an official committee statement at all, but rather voiced the opinions of "unnamed experts" within the group.

They went on to say that the critical report had not been suppressed at all, but simply had not been published because the committee had not approved it. (Normally, the committee published reports only on agreement of a majority of the members.)

If you insisted on more information, they had plenty of other reasons for being unperturbed—including published praise for their work from that very committee and from other war agencies.

But even their insistence that this was "the sort of thing you have to expect during a campaign" somehow failed to full- explain their unusual and utter lack of fear under congressional fire.

Finally, the whole truth came out.

Both Republican and Democratic leaders have contacted them of late, they said, promising prompt congressional action on the housing situation as soon as congress convenes.

Such action definitely will not be a revival of the much-disputed and finally shelved Wagner-Ellender-Taft measure, they said, but added it probably would resemble the pigeonholed bill in many important respects.

One official, whose position certainly qualifies him as an NHA spokesman, told this correspondent:

"At first, both Republicans and Democrats were inclined to play ball with the anti-housing legislation lobbyists. But as the campaign wore on, pressure from renters, small home-owners and particularly veterans forced them to get off the limb.

"As it stands now, they'll try to finish out the campaign without letting housing become too hot an issue, except in a few isolated instances. Then, if the Republicans take over control of congress, for instance, one of their first moves will be to bid for the veteran support with a new veterans' housing bill. If the Democrats retain control, they will seek to strengthen their 1948 position by the same move.

"Leaders of both sides privately have told me that was the plan," he grinned in conclusion, "and either way, we're going to get some housing legislation."

If that spokesman—and other NHA officials with whom this correspondent has talked — are correct, that means strategists of both major parties have decided in favor of retaining at least some housing and rent controls for some time to come.

Otherwise, there would be no need for legislation.

If they are wrong, then I know a whole bunch of federal folks who are living in a fool's paradise—until election day!

A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth.—Luke 12:15.

Listen World!

The Will To Go On.

IT ISN'T ENOUGH to have a healthy body or a brilliant mind.

In time they both will fail you, for life puts strains upon us that crush the flesh and bewilder the greatest minds.

One little mishap can cripple you for years and leave you helplessly groping.

But there is something you can have—something you must have—if you wish to round out your days—and that is the will to go on.

That does not mean the will to go on happily or profitably or successfully to high achievements. It simply means a tough resiliency in you which refuses to take the count.

It's a real and tangible thing, that will to go on—and anyone can develop it.

Have you ever watched a great athlete during his training period? There is so much more to that training than certain exercises and gymnastics. There is a stubborn, flaming purpose in it or, however strong or skilful, that man is going to flop.

Life isn't merely a matter of existence for any of us. It is a battle from the minute we are born. I think there is no more significant or mysterious sound on earth than the first cry of a newborn child. Something more than a tiny mouth is crying there. The spirit is crying. The soul is uttering its first great protest and challenge and from that moment on the battle must be constant or it will fail.

Do not take your life for granted. Do not think that you will exist simply because you are strong and well and without disease. Sooner or later, trials and discouragements are bound to come which will test the very roots of your spirit. And there is only one defense against such trials and that is—the will to go on.

The will to go on whether you're happy or not, or successful or not, or lonely or not. The will to go on simply because there is something in you that is greater than the powers of darkness.

Learn that early and hang on to it all your life. Carry that knowledge with you as you would carry a shield by day or a torch by night. It is the only thing that will save you from mortal hurt.

It is the only thing that will light your way home at last.

As a Student Views the 3-Mill School Levy

Editor's Note—No better-presented argument favorable to approval of the 3-mill school levy at Tuesday's election has come to hand than that contained in an article prepared by Joanne Fay, 109 Stewart avenue, a high school senior who writes Senior high school news for Sunday's News-Journal. This was included with her "school news" for today's issue but is withdrawn to this location in the hope that it will thus gain a more widespread reading and discussion.

* * *

THROUGH the medium of press, radio, and assembly we have read and listened, during the past few weeks, to many discussions on the subject of the proposed 3-mill levy, to be submitted to the voters at next Tuesday's election. What does it mean to us as students?

Most pupils in Mansfield high school are well aware of the importance of their education and are deeply interested in Mansfield schools; therefore we, perhaps more than any other group, are conscious of the continuing loss of good teachers from the Mansfield school system.

One has only to read the daily paper to note the exodus of many of our best teachers for better paying positions in commerce and industry.

Obviously this is because teaching does not pay enough money. After completing four years of college and obtaining a bachelor's degree, the prospective teacher in the Mansfield school system starts at a basic salary of $25 a week! Most of [illegible] class who make an equal amount weekly just working after school hours and on Saturdays!

Would you be willing to spend four years in college, at your own expense, training for a job that would pay you a starting salary of $25 a week and a maximum, after 15 years of teaching, of $200 a month?

No, of course, you wouldn't. You can see why fewer and fewer pupils entering college are choosing teaching as their profession. Plainly it can be seen that, although there will certainly be more children attending schools in this city during the next few years, there are not likely to be enough teachers.

Fewer teachers would necessarily mean lower educational standards, thus depriving the younger students of the advantages we have enjoyed, advantages which Mansfield certainly wants them to have.

The proposed remedy is the 3-mill levy to be voted on next Tuesday. The levy is for a five-year period and will make available, if passed, sufficient money to increase the basic salary of teachers from $1,300 to $1,800 a year and increase the maximum salary to $3,000 a year for those with a master's degree. It will also increase the salaries of other school system employes.

Passage of the levy will certainly accomplish two things: It will make it easier to keep the teachers now in the system (every one of them is badly needed), and it will make it possible to attract more teachers in the future—when they will be just as badly needed.

[illegible] BOOST the levy!

It Says Here:

—By KEN WOODMAN

LACK of any appearance of opposition to the three-mill school operation levy and the two-tenths mill recreation levy, to be voted on Tuesday, is an encouraging sign.

* * *

Of course, it is hard to conceive who could openly oppose two measures so necessary to the progress of the Mansfield community.

* * *

But there is also an element of danger in the lack of obvious opposition. There is a chance that some who favor the measures will say, "Oh, they'll pass without my vote." Remember, a 65 per cent majority is required for passage of the recreation levy. Every vote is needed. [illegible]

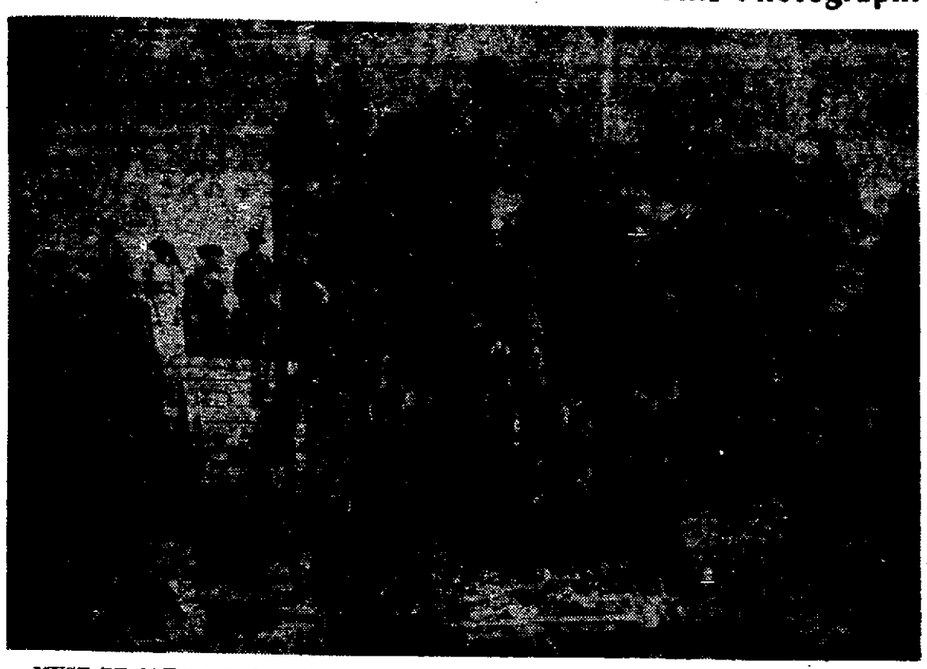
Can You Identify This Photograph?



MUST BE SLIPPING—Last Sunday's Mansfield Album picture, that of the Ohio State Reformatory (original building), was identified by only two readers, Mrs. Grace Schellenberger, 34 West Temple street, and Miss Katherine D. The men were named at a special meeting of the Joint Veterans Commission of Richland county, M. A. Fulkerson, president of the commission, announced.

They include W. E. Rusk, grand marshal; William Colby and Fulkerson, vice grand marshals; William Allen and Al Conroy, division marshals; R. C. Shaffer, of Shelby, division marshal of units from northern half of the county; Leo S. Robinson, of Bellville, marshal of the southern half's units.

Condon, National Guard units; Coleman Todd, reserve military units; G. C. Kahl, grand marshal's aid and in charge of highway patrol auxiliary.

Fulkerson appealed to all veterans to participate in the parade. "Let's made this parade the biggest and best Armistice day parade ever, and from here on, every year confine our parades not to an Armistice day but to Victory days," he said.

The parade will start at 7:30 p. m. A display of fireworks will be given during the evening.

Rising Living Costs Force Teachers to Seek Extra Employment

INSTRUCTORS URGE PASSAGE OF 3 MILL LEVY

Record Shows Prices Up 50 Per Cent, But School Salaries Same.

By NITA BRANSON

Mansfield teachers used to consider making a little money on the side as fun, but the "fun" stopped a long time ago.

Today Mansfield's teachers consider extra employment a grim necessity, with prices up 50 per cent and teachers' salaries not at all.

That extra little "on the side" means for many teachers, particularly the men with family responsibilities and children to educate, the difference between penurius living and a decent livelihood.

These are the teachers who are hoping fervently that the school levy is approved next Tuesday, not only for their own sakes but for the sake of their children.

A. Lemoine Derr, director of vocal music in the schools, has directed Mansfield choirs for a number of years. For a number of years he had two or three such musical groups under his supervision outside of school work. This year, he has had to limit his extra job to the choir at the Park avenue Baptist church.

"If I want to put my children through school, Derr said, "I have to have more income. I feel that I owe them an education, and I certainly can't do it on my present salary."

Although the V. D. Coe family gets much of its living from an 80 acre farm, the farm was not bought with savings from Coe's salary as a Senior high school teacher. It was bought from dabbing in real estate and building houses to sell during summer vacations both by Coe and his wife. He too has definite ideas on the subject of increased pay.

He said, "I think passage of the bond issue is essential. It's a real problem to keep teachers who are properly equipped to teach our children. If salaries were higher it would encourage young people to prepare for the teaching profession."

Hobart Lime, shop supervisor at John Simpson Junior high school, agrees in the general opinion. He supplements his income with well-cleaning jobs. Lime has special equipment for this work and his Saturdays are usually scheduled ahead.

Harry S. Hostetler, manual drawing teacher at Johnny Appleseed, continues to teach because he loves it, but he has had to earn extra money for years. During the war he worked at the Barnes Manufacturing company from 5 until 10 p. m. each day. Now he teaches a class in carpentry at Senior high school for GI students. But while he and Mrs. Hostetler have been rearing their family, that "extra" job was essential to meet living expenses.

"I'm thoroughly convinced," he declared, "that if America wants better schools, enough money will have to be paid so that higher salaries can attract better teachers."

Miss Margaret Wheeler, also a Johnny Appleseed teacher, works at the H. L. Reed company on Saturdays and during summer vacations. Miss Wheeler has her mother to support and finds her salary inadequate.

"If we are to maintain an American way of life," Miss Wheeler commented, "We must have teachers, and in order to get the right kind we must have an inducement for the young people to enter the profession."

One of the most interesting avocations among Mansfield teachers is that of Earl L. Heasley, who lectures on "The Story of the Cross" throughout Ohio and sometimes in other states.

Heasley said concerning the proposed levy, "Its pathetic that a city the size of Mansfield should have such a low salary schedule for its teachers. We are particular about the quality of everything else for our children but seem indifferent as far as education is concerned. An increase in salary would benefit children as well as teachers. We are cheating our children of opportunities which better teachers could give."

Works At Kobacker's.

Mrs. Arthur Owens, who has a young son to educate, is definitely in favor of the levy. She supplements her income by working at Kobacker's Saturdays and part time during summer vacations.

Another Mansfield teacher who works at the Barnes Manufacturing company is Ensil McNab, social science teacher at Johnny Appleseed. He works four hours each night for five nights each week.

"I've worked there since Sept. 1943. During the war," he recalled, "I made as much in five nights there as I did in teaching. I've taught school for 19 years. I don't know how to do anything else. If I did I'd certainly do it."

A farm six miles west helps George Sherman and his family as far as food is concerned.

There are others who find it necessary to use their leisure time for extra work. George Sherman of Senior high finds a farm pays dividends in family living; Gary Clouse at Johnny Appleseed, who also has a family, draws an extra check at Barnes: John Stout, who teaches distributive education at Senior high, makes an avocation out of his vocation. By day Stout teaches retailing and on Saturdays and holidays he practices it by working at Siegenthaler's.

SMALL NATIONS ATTACK COUNCIL

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y. (AP)—Despite strenuous efforts of Soviet Russia to block criticism of the United Nations security council, Egypt and Argentina yesterday led a small-nations attack on the council for rejecting the applications of Ireland, Portugal, Transjordan, Albania and Outer Mongolia for U. N. membership.

The sharpest attack came from Argentine Delegate Jose Arce, who protested particularly against use of the veto on membership applications and declared that if this procedure is to be followed "it is better if the other 46 nations simply folded up our papers and turned over to the five great powers the solution of our problems."

The controversy developed at the opening meeting of the general assembly's powerful political committee. One of the high spots in the debate was a clash between Senator Tom Connally (D-Tex), U. S. representative, and Soviet Representative Andrei Y. Vishinsky over the broad principle of the committee's right to review the security council's actions.

Vishinsky insisted that the committee had no "mandate" to criticize the council, while Connally contended the committee had the entire report of the council before it and could discuss any part of the report dealing with the admission of new members.

Mrs. Benninghoff Reviews the Topical "American," by Howard Fast, Friday

"THE AMERICAN," by Howard Fast, the best seller selected by Mrs. Aileen Benninghoff for her second book review under the auspices of the Women's Society of the First Congregational church, was a most timely choice, dealing as it does with the political career of John Peter Altgeld, former governor of Illinois. The review under the auspices of the Women's Society of the First Congregational church was given Friday afternoon at the United Presbyterian church.

The fictionalized biography of a great politician was most interesting in view of the approaching election day.

The book traced the career of "Peter" Altgeld from his poverty-stricken childhood in the Ohio wilderness through his rise to governor to his death in relative obscurity as a Chicago lawyer.

The focal point of the book is the decision which Peter Altgeld as governor made to pardon three men convicted on charges of anarchy in the Chicago Haymarket riot. His decision was interpreted as championing the cause of labor. Opposed to the interests of capitalists of the country, this cost him his re-election as governor.

As the thread of Altgeld's determination to fight for justice was developed by Mrs. Benninghoff the portrait of an individual's struggle to determine his real ambition and make peace with his conscience was made clear, and John Peter Altgeld emerged as a true American, and champion of right.

Mrs. Fred Schuster introduced the speaker.

The third and last review will be Dec. 6 at the United Presbyterian church at 2:15 p. m.

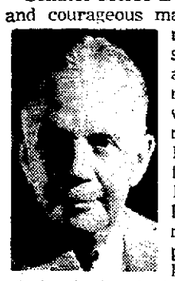
White Explains Why Negro Vote Does Not Shift to Republicans

By WALTER WHITE

Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, for whom I have great personal respect as a distinguished jurist, legislator and friend, takes me to task for saying that there is no enthusiasm among Negro voters for returning to the Republican party. Enthusiasm for such a shift is lacking, I said, because the majority of the Republican senators are aligned with anti-Negro southern Democrats on many of the economic, social and racial issues on which the Negro feels his security and that of other Americans are based.



Senator Morse is an honest, able and courageous man—which is a rarity on either side of the senate aisle. I readily agree with his documentation of Democratic perfidy on the Fair Employment Practice Committee and anti-poll tax bills. I know of some of the deals which were made in the cloakroom. I said as much in the column to which Senator Morse replied. I also agree wholeheartedly with Senator Morse's denunciation of the "political jockeying that Democratic leaders participated in during the last few days of the 79th congress on the anti-poll tax bill." But I wish to append the observation that certain of Senator Morse's Republican colleagues were "jockeying" on the same horse.

Some of the supporters of the anti-poll tax bill in their desperation to obtain a vote before the congress adjourned, favored calling up of the bill in the hope that some miracle would occur and the bill be enacted into law. Senator Morse did not believe that and said so publicly and vigorously. So did I.

To borrow once again Al Smith's famous phrase, "Let's look at the record." The vote on cloture on July 31, 1946 was 39 yeas and 33 nays. The failure to achieve the necessary two-thirds majority resulted in abandonment of the bill to end disfranchisement of this character of 7,000,000 southern whites and 3,000,000 southern Negroes.

But analysis of the 39 yeas is highly significant—22 Democrats, 16 Republicans and 1 Progressive. Six Republicans voted against cloture, while 16 others either were absent or abstained from voting. Had the 22 Republicans voted for cloture, the total would have been 61 yeas against 33 nays which would have almost provided the necessary two-thirds majority.

The onus would thereby have been put totally and permanently upon the Democratic party for defeat of the anti-poll tax bill. The Republicans would have been in the clear and would have had an unanswerable argument for use in the 1946 and 1948 campaigns.

These facts from the Congressional Record are presented with no intention whatever of making, as Senator Morse's phrase puts it, "good propaganda for the Democratic party." I hold as little brief for that party as for the reactionary wing of the Republican party. But the fact remains that of northern Democratic senators, 20 voted for cloture, 7 voted against cloture and 4 were absent or paired.

Of the southern Democratic senators, 2 voted for cloture (Barkley of Kentucky and Pepper of Florida), 18 voted against cloture and 1 was absent. The record of neither party on this nor on the FEPC or anti-lynching bills can be described as anything but dishonest and despicable with a distressingly few number of notable exceptions of which Senator Morse is one.

Senator Morse has announced that on the first day of the 80th Congress he will propose a resolution in the Senate, prior to the adoption of rules for that session of the congress, to prevent filibuster. A majority vote on Senator Morse's resolution will make it the pending business of the senate which cannot be disposed of by referring it to a committee.

In a brilliant article which appeared in a national magazine, June 15, 1946, Senator Morse put the issue clearly in these words, "There is little doubt, of course, that the introduction of such a resolution will be vigorously opposed by the defenders of the filibuster. The sponsors of senate rule by the minority have already made themselves clear. During the recent FEPC filibuster, Democratic Senator Tydings of Maryland stated: 'The rule of the majority. The rule of votes. Majority to Hades. . . . Let us not fool ourselves with the silly thought that majorities are always right.' . . . It is clear that these senators will wage a last-ditch fight against anti-filibuster legislation with their customary weapon, the filibuster! . . . There are two reasons why it is important that the fight to pass an anti-filibuster resolution should be waged at the beginning of the next session of congress. First, it should be conducted concurrently with the fight to establish majority rule in the House in order that public attention may be focused on the same basic issue, namely, the need of democracy in both houses of congress. Second if the resolution is followed by a filibuster, it will not hold up any other legislation, since none will be ready for Senate action."

More power to Senator Morse in the fight which he has pledged to make. It is a fight which can be won if the people of the country back Senator Morse and those who stand with him in the effort to democratize the legislative body of the "greatest democracy on earth." The sheep and the goats will then be clearly and unmistakably separated and revealed. This goes for Republicans and Democrats.

But I repeat that the Wayne Morses, Wendell Willkies and Charles LaFollettes of the Republican party still represent a pathetic minority and that Negro voters are not yet convinced that it is to their interest to flop back to a party dominated by the Tafts, Wherrys and Clare Hoffmans.

It is somewhat surprising to see so honest and brilliant a mind as that of Senator Morse proposing nothing better than that "There has not been a time in a great many years in the country when a change of party administration in American would be more beneficial to the rights and interests of the Negro people in America than now." It is cold comfort to choose between Tweeddledum and Tweeddledee.

OUR TEACHERS ARE ENTITLED TO A FAIR, LIVABLE INCOME!

This question answers itself—a definite NO, in view of the greatly increased costs of living today, and the salary and wage adjustments in practically every field, but one. This exception is the teaching profession, those entrusted with the all-important responsibility of training our boys and girls. Is it any wonder that there is a shortage of teachers in Mans field and other schools throughout the nation? Or that fewer and fewer men and women are enrolling in educational courses in our colleges? This obvious deficiency in teachers' salaries can be remedied by the passage of the 3 MILL LEVY on Nov. 5th. It would provide an increase that will help to make teaching, as a profession, sufficiently attractive to insure more and better teachers in the future. Let's be fair with ourselves, and insure proper education for our children by voting FOR the 3 MILL LEVY.

Jaycee Essay Winners See Passage of Levy As Means of Erasing Juvenile Delinquency

Pleading for the united support of Mansfield's taxpayers of the two-tenths-mill recreation levy as a means toward erasing the term "juvenile delinquency" from teen-aged groups, three Mansfield school pupils placed first in their respective age groups in the levy's essay contest, staged last week by the Mansfield Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The works, on which they won their honors, follow. The winners were Catherine Smith, senior pupil at St. Peter's high school; Charlotte Lemley, seventh grader at John Simpson junior high; and Mariann Davison, sixth grade at Brinkerhoff school.

The levy, which would afford year round recreation to children and adults alike, will be voted at the Nov. 5 election. The measure would reap approximately $12,000 from the tax duplicate for a period of five years.

Common subject for each of the compositions turned in was "What the Recreation Levy Means to Me."

Text of the composition by Miss Smith, which won first place in the high school grouping, follows:

"The proposed two-tenths-mill levy will benefit the youth of Mansfield immensely. Up to the present time, Mansfield's youth have had very little opportunity to have the recreational facilities offered to the school-age youngsters in other cities, that should, by right, be a part of their everyday life

Catherine Smith

"Mansfield's youth have no place to go during their spare time nor any recreational facilities offered to them for their use whenever they may want it. It is up to the voting population of Mansfield to provide the ways and means of entertainment and recreation for these children.

"The saying that idle minds and hands get into trouble has proved true in more cases than can be mentioned. Juvenile and delinquency are two unnecessary words in our vocabulary, yet they are the words you hear most frequently today. How many people that speak these words each day, stop to think of the cause, effects and ways of stopping those two hated words? I wonder how many voters are thinking of their responsibility to the youth of today. How many really feel responsible for these acts of the youths in their cities and country? It is their responsibility almost more than the youths themselves If they would feel this responsibility, ninety-nine per cent of the delinquency in America would be wiped out.

"Oh yes! This is all right for the other fellow. Someone else can think and worry about this. Someone in political office, the pastors of the different churches or some organization should take some action. It's disgraceful to the country. But there's nothing I can do about it. Aren't those your thoughts, Mr. and Mrs. America? Stop one moment and think what one person or a group of persons can do alone.

"This is where you come in. Now's your chance to show just what you mean to do to stop this delinquency, to show whether or not you intend to do your part for the youth of one community.

"The Junior Chamber of Commerce is an organization that has realized the necessity of Mansfield's youth. But nothing can be done without YOU, Mr. and Mrs. Mansfield. All you have to do is vote for the two-tenths mill levy. The youth of Mansfield are not asking too much of you, are they?"

Seventh grade John Simpson junior high pupil, Charlotte Lemley, turned in this essay which took first place in the junior high group:

"It surely would be wonderful if we had a recreational center—a place to go besides picture shows. I think we teen-agers see too many shows and get too many ideas. We think we can do as they do.

Charlotte Lemley

"As a teen-ager, I think we need a place where we can go, where we can have good, clean fun, dance and play games. I believe we can curb a lot of child delinquency by having a place for them to go all year around, especially in winter, to keep them off the streets.

"In the summer we have the public parks, where we can go swimming, have picnics, go boat riding, play ball and have good playgrounds for children of all ages.

"I believe after we get a Youth Center started, the churches and other organizations will help with it when they see that good it is doing.

"With the coperation of the people of Mansfield and by having it centrally located and easy for us to get to, I know it will be a success.

"It may add a little to your taxes, but with the good it will do, you will be glad to pay it. I do think this is a wonderful opportunity to help the children of your community.

"You, the people of Mansfield, have never let us down.

"We, the children of today, the future citizens of tomorrow, need your full-fledged support.

"Vote, 'Yes' for the recreational levy, November 5th."

Rounding out the contest entries, was Mariann Davison, sixth grader at Brinkerhoff who walked off with first place in the elementary group for the following composition:

"The recreational levy means a lot to me personally, as I will soon be in my teens. I have noticed in the paper lately where juvenile authorities have had trouble with teen-agers destroying properties

Mariann Davison

"One thing that has always puzzled me is the tax payers have always been able to build large buildings to keep and reform bad boys and girls, but never think of doing anything for the ones who are good

"I personally think it would be wonderful to have, not only for myself, but for all other children, a place to go and spend leisure time with trained supervisors who teach good habits, along with having a good time.

"I, like all other children, have idle hours where I play in the streets and cross people's properties If such a place as a recreational center was provided, where we could go and play with old friends and new friends, accidents involving children would be reduced by great numbers.

"If you vote to pass the recreational levy I am sure all the children will thank you, and you will be awarded in the future because education with good, healthy play grounds and leaders will make us good citizens of tomorrow and Mansfield will be a town we can all be proud of."

JOE MOTT LOOKS OVER A "JOB"

Vet's Dreams Come True, Opens Garage

A boyhood dream fashioned into reality best sums up the garage established since his discharge from the service by Joe Mott, 33, today's "veteran in business for himself."

"As a small kid I used to hang around garages, or just anybody who was working on a car," Joe Mott, 588 Lida street, explained.

"I early dreamed of the fine garage I would have some day," Mott went on. "In high school I took all the mechanical and automotive training that I could get."

"I was born in West Virginia, but came to Mansfield in 1926 where I started a garage and worked at the Tappan Stove company until the war interrupted my work.

"My four brothers and I all saw service overseas and all got home safely, thanks to God." Mott continued, "I saw 22 months service as a machinist in the navy, in the Atlantic and South Pacific."

"Discharged in December of 1945, I lost no time in getting back into civilian action," Mott related. "In January I had my new garage open, specializing in welding, but doing general repair work of all kind."

Mott pointed to the complete, neatly arranged layout in his small garage. "With things going as they are, we definitely plan to expand to give 24-hour wrecker service as soon as possible," he commented.

Mott then excused himself to get back to work on a special "job" he wanted to get out to a customer as quickly as possible.

Mott, who lives with his wife at 588 Lida, belongs to the Masonic order, American Legion and the Chamber of Commerce.

Ceremonies to Feature Homecoming Tradition

Queen Betty Long and Attendants to Be Presented During Pre-Game Festivities Nov. 8.

By JOANNE FAY

News-Journal Senior High School Correspondent

Highlighting the traditional Homecoming game festivities, Friday, Nov. 8 when Mansfield tangles with Youngstown Rayen, will be the presentation, in pre-game ceremonies, of Queen Betty Long and her attendants, Betty DeLaney, Joan Freeland, Gloria Morton, and Catherine Wilging. The girls, all juniors, were chosen by popular vote of the entire student body.

During the half-time intermission the MHS Tyger Marching Band will present a unique drill. Other surprise features are in store. The afternoon prior to the game, a gigantic pep rally will be staged by the Student Representative council and the junior cheer leaders. This will be the first public presentation of the new junior cheer leader group. Esther Hendrickson, last year's queen, will crown the new queen during the rally. Fred Staub, who scouted the Youngstown Rayen team's previous games, will present pre-game statistics concerning our opponents.

Adding to the festivity will be a dance in the gym following the game. This is the second dance to be sponsored by the Atomic seniors.

TYGER MARCHING BAND

You have thrilled at the football half-time appearances of your 80-piece MHS Marching band as it moved down the field in its smart 136-step-per-minute cadence. You have shown by your applause and cheers your appreciation of the beauty and precision of the performances of our drum major and majorettes. But do you realize the behind-the-scene efforts that give these shows their snap and color?

During last summer's school vacation period the basic preparations were made for the exacting but colorful formations to be used at the 1946-47 season football games. Since that time band members have averaged 15 hours a week rehearsing and perfecting the formations; perhaps you have heard or seen them practicing from 7 a. m. to 8 a. m. or after school at Stadium field.

The Tyger band majorettes are coached by Marguerite Speas assisted by Head Majorette Bee McCune. The majorettes are Donna Baker, Betty Bauman, Kathleen Foss, Marilyn Hughes, Dolores Keck, Marilyn McGregor, Jennie Mennetti, Alverta Smith, and Tygerette Anita King.

Most members of the band first started their band work in the junior high schools and thus each has several years of music study behind him. Junior high school band directors are Miss Jeanne Worley at Appleseed and Miss Gladys Arnholt at Simpson.

Membership in the MHS band, which has been developed and directed by J. Merton Holcombe during the past 25 years, is limited to students with acceptable scholastic marks, musical ability, character, courtesy, and loyalty. Most of those chosen for membership purchase their own instruments, though some are furnished by the school.

Uniforms, which are purchased every three years, are financed by contributions received during the annual Band Tag Day drive conducted by the Band Parents club. Transportation to out-of-town games has been provided by the Tyger club and by civic organizations.

Our band has repaid the active support and interest of all the above organizations and the public by winning first place twice and second place twice in the state class A competition, and seventh place in national class A during the time Mr. Holcombe has been its director.

Student officers of this year's band are: Captain Herbert Davis, 1st. Lieut. Dick Cook, Top Sgt. Frank Milliken, and Sgts. Ed Lockwood, Bill Miller, Jim Stevenson, Norman Henry, Verlon Essig, Jim Kochheiser and George Karnavas.

Band Tag Day is Nov. 9—next Saturday.

GOOD LUCK, ROCK!

Surprising Kenny Horvath at his home Monday, Oct. 23, a committee presented him with a sterling silver identification bracelet on behalf of the student body. Kenny, known and respected throughout the state as a "powerful, never-give-up fullback" broke his leg in a practice session shortly after the Massillon game and will be lost to the team for the balance of the season. "The Rock" had been the Tygers' high point scorer this season and was one of Mansfield's most colorful and consistent gridiron favorites.

WHO SHALL CONTROL THE POLITICAL POWER OF THE PUBLIC PURSE?

The secret of Democratic political success since the advent of the New Deal is the CONTROL OF PUBLIC FUNDS—those PUBLIC OFFICIALS who control APPROPRIATIONS for political jobs.

Facts show that during election years the New Deal payroll is much greater than off election years. That is why today we have so many on the Federal Payroll and once they become attached—nothing will get them off—EXCEPT A REPUBLICAN VICTORY. They are not on the public payroll because they are needed—THEY ARE ON THERE FOR THE VOTES THEY PRODUCE—IN OTHER WORDS TO WIN ELECTIONS.

The Federal payroll since V-J day has increased 154,000 employees. The New Deal Branch office payroll at Columbus has been increased nearly 10,000 by the present Democratic Governor.

THE PAY ROLL VOTE

In the Judgment of experts the important factor in American elections is not the labor vote, or the farmer vote, or even that of business. IT IS THE VOTE OF THE FEDERAL EMPLOYEES OF WHOM THERE IS CLOSE TO 3,000,000. We are of the opinion that we have already in the federal establishment a bureaucracy with SUFFICIENT STRENGTH TO PERPETUATE ITSELF IN OFFICE. (Cleveland Plain Dealer—10/29/'46)

HOW MUCH LONGER ARE THE TAXPAYERS GOING TO STAND FOR SUCH CORRUPTION IN GOVERNMENT — DELIBERATELY PADDING THE PUBLIC PAYROLLS IN ORDER TO PERPETUATE THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY IN POWER—USING PUBLIC MONEY TO FURTHER THEIR OWN PERSONAL POLITICAL INTEREST. THIS IS THE WHY OF HIGH TAXES. This is the reason why you should vote for:

John W. Bricker For United States Senator
J. Harry McGregor For U. S. Congressman
Thomas J. Herbert For Governor
John L. Catlett For County Representative
Cyrus L. Shoup For County Commissioner

Because these offices control public appropriations and BECAUSE THESE REPUBLICAN OFFICIALS WILL STOP THE RAPE OF THE FEDERAL, STATE AND COUNTY TREASURIES FOR POLITICAL REASONS.

Here's HOW The Three Mill Levy Will Continue To Help The Madison Local Schools

It will help to maintain present school standards. In fact it is imperative that this levy be passed in order to maintain present standards.

It will help keep efficient teachers in our school system.
It will help meet increased cost of operation.

It will prevent considerable curtailment in the school program during the coming years.

At a time when education of our children is more important than ever before surely we do not want to curtail the work.

Teachers' salaries as they now stand are out of proportion with all other professional salaries. Poor wages will attract few persons to the teaching profession.

Good wages will stimulate competition for teaching positions resulting in better teachers for our schools.

THIS IS A SPECIAL LEVY OUTSIDE OF THE TEN-MILL LIMITATION, FOR OPERATING EXPENSES OF THE SCHOOL DISTRICT. IT IS A CONTINUATION OF THE PRESENT RATE, THEREFORE IT IS NOT AN INCREASE.

4-County Report Indicates Local Issues Hold Voters' Interest

MANSFIELD NEWS-JOURNAL

SCHOOL LEVIES, BOND MEASURES GET ATTENTION

Crawford, Holmes Counties Expect Big Vote; Lighter Turnout In Morrow.

By JOSEPH R. EVANS
(News-Journal State Editor)

As the 1946 election campaign swung into its final phases yesterday with little more than 40 hours until balloting begins, strategists of both major parties were predicting victory in the four-county area of Ashland, Crawford, Holmes and Morrow counties.

However the senatorial, congressional and state-wide races may come out, reports from the four counties indicates major interest to be in local and county non-partisan issues and in a few county contests.

Conflicting, too, are reports of vote strength that will be cast on Tuesday. Competent observers in Ashland county foresee approximately 12,000 going to the polls, while Morrow-county prognosticators say a light vote of about 6,500 in the offing.

In Crawford county, where registration is not required, one of the biggest votes in history is forecast. Heavy balloting also is expected in Holmes county.

School operating levies, much more numerous than in years, and bond issues for school and civic construction apparently has taken up the evident slack in the normal partisan election campaigns.

As an example, no less than 16 levies will seek approval of voters in various parts of Crawford county; Morrow county citizens will be asked to approve nine; six will be on ballots in Holmes county, and an untabulated number in Ashland county.

Other measures that will attract voters to the poles are a number of municipal bond issues. Three in Morrow county head the list. The largest, for $190,000 would cover proposed construction of a new gymnasium and other school facilities for the village of Cardington.

Others in the same county are a $180,000 measure for the erection of a county-wide auditorium to be located at the Morrow county fairgrounds. The third, for $25,000, would be for the construction of a farm-shop building for the Washington township school district.

Primary interest in Ashland county, observers say, rests with the $75,000 airport bond issue and two city tax levies. The airport measure, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, seeks to procure for Ashland a municipal airfield.

Loudonville voters, in Ashland county, will be asked to approve two tax levies. One for renewal of the current five mills for school operation with an addition of three mills, and the second for renewal of the one-mill municipal operating expense levy.

In Crawford county, where political seers are predicting a record turnout, interest seemingly is divided between the campaign for state offices and local issues. In all 16 levies will seek approval of balloteers. Only Crestline, among all county taxing sub-division, will not call on voters to cast a vote for a special levy.

Six levies and two bond issues will go on ballots in Holmes county. Of the special levies, five are for school operating expenses and four for municipal purposes. The bond issues, for Nashville and Walnut Creek school districts, are for $32,000 and $18,000, respectively.

YOUNG ASHLAND JP APPOINTED

ASHLAND — Appointment of Miss Betty G. Bennighof as justice of the peace of Ashland was announced recently by the trustees of Montgomery township. Miss Bennighof will fulfill the unexpired term vacated by R. R. Teeter.

At 22, Miss Bennighof is one of the youngest justices of the peace in the state and is also one of very few women to hold such a position.

The new justice held a civil service position with the war department in Dayton during the war and more recently has been employed in the office of the Ashland county probate judge.

Atty. William T. Devor is Montgomery township's other justice of the peace.

New Building Seen as Aid To Teaching

IBERIA—The proposed new Washington-Bloomfield school district farm-shop building, subject to favorable consideration of voters on election day, would be a one-story cement-block structure with brick to match the present building, according to local school board members.

The new building would be 94 by 32 feet, and would have four rooms. It would include a classroom, 24 by 32 feet; a tool room, 12 by eight feet; a testing room, 12 by eight feet, and a farm shop, 62 by 32 feet. Officials said it would provide greater facilities for manual arts and vocational agriculture.

Tentative plans call for remodeling of the present vocational agriculture rooms to be used for home rooms for a new fifth-grade class. Also, for the third grade, with the music department utilizing the present third-grade room.

School officials said the board of education would be faced with a teaching problem, the hiring of a new fifth grade instructor. At present the fifth grade students are divided into two other rooms, interfering with the overall efficiency of the classes.

The expansion program was adopted by the board to care for the increased enrollment, the total this year being 340 as against 290 last year.

TWO MISHAPS MAKE YEAR'S TOTAL 194

BUCYRUS — Police added two accidents to the docket Thursday, one taking place at the Mansfield and Walnut street intersection and the other in the 1100 block on East Mansfield street, bring the total accidents to date this year to 194.

Cars driven by Earl R. White, Aurora street, and Ruth LaNier, 533 South Sandusky avenue, were involved in the former collision which occurred when Miss LaNier drove into the intersection in front of the White car. Both cars were damaged.

The other accident involved a parked car belonging to Richard W. Magers which was struck from the rear by a car operated by George Williams, 1009 Marion road. Williams told police he applied the brakes and struck the rear of the parked car to avoid a collision with an approaching truck. Both cars were badly damaged.

Airport Bond Issue and Levies Top Ashland Voter's Interests

ASHLAND—A comparatively light vote of 12,000 is predicted for Ashland county by the county election board officials as the Nov. 5 election hoves into view.

Campaigning in the county has been negligible except for two big rallies in Ashland by the two parties, with individual campaigning serving to wind up the last days before election time.

Three local contests, together with the congressional race, a municipal airport bond issue and two tax levies, highlight the Ashland election.

Outstanding race in the county is that between Ivan Eshleman, Republican, current county auditor and F. E. Wicks, Democrat, and former county auditor for two terms, who are seeking a four-year term as auditor. Eshleman is also running unopposed for the short term which expires in March. He was appointed auditor to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Lee Mills last February. The appointment expires at the time of the regular election.

Charles E. Miller, Democrat, and W. B. Hart, Republican, new in the political field, oppose each other for the post of county commissioner to succeed Tom Stence whose term is expiring.

Frank McClure, Loudonville Republican, and current Ohio representative from Ashland county, is opposed by A. Ross Siverling, Ashland Democrat, former Ashland county prosecutor and veteran of World War II.

Principal interest in Ashland centers around the $75,000 airport bond issue and the two city tax levies, one a school levy which includes renewal of the current three-mill levy with an addition of two mills for current expenses for five years. The second levy proposal is for an additional one mill for city operating expenses for the next five years.

Ashland Junior Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the airport bond issue with an active campaign. The Jaycees lost out by only eight votes in a similar bond issue last year and are again attempting to procure for Ashland a municipal airport.

The school levy is also receiving enthusiastic backing from school officials, teachers and Ashland PTA, with house-to-house canvassing being conducted by PTA members.

The one-mill levy asked by the city for operating expenses is being sought as a means of securing additional revenue, with officials stating that the alternative will be a sewer rental or garbage collection charge or some other similar revenue-getter to meet the rising costs of city operation.

Bond issues outside the city of Ashland include a $25,000 bond issue at Loudonville for purchase of a Loudonville property to be used as a library while a 3.2157 mill-levy is being sought by Savannah-Clearcreek-Butler school district for enlarging the present school building, with renewal of the present.

Loudonville voters will also pass on two tax levies, one for renewal of the current five mills for school operating with an addition of three mills and the second for renewal of the one-mill municipal operating expenses levy.

Voters will also act on school levies in Perrysville school district, Polk school district, Montgomery township school district, Troy school district and Perry township school district.

At Vermillion township, voters will also pass on a proposed renewal of the cemetery maintenance one-half mill levy, plus an additional half-mill.

Holmes County Major Party Feud Ignites Voter Interests

MILLERSBURG—Despite being a non-presidential election year and with only two contests appearing on the ballots, political seers of Holmes county predict a comparatively heavy vote at the polls on Tuesday.

The county-wide Democratic-Republican feud apparently is generating considerable interest which is expected to attract many electors to the voting booths. Observers contend the voting on Nov. 5 will not be a choice of personalities, but one party against another.

Six levies and two issues augment the interest surrounding the only two local county contests. The two county races which balloteers will decide Tuesday are for the office of Holmes county sheriff and county commissioner.

Four candidates, two Republicans and as many Democrats, all running on the Independent ticket, seek the unexpired term of former Sheriff Harry D. Weiss, which runs until 1949.

The present sheriff, Wayne D Starner, holding a provisional appointment to office, is opposed by Charles W. Monticue, former Winesburg inn-keeper; Cleo Hoover, of Millersburg, and Ted Strutz, Millersburg Route 2, both Republicans.

The other contest is between C. A. Calhoun, Millersburg Democrat, and board of county commissioners president, and Republican Clarence J. Ling of Nashville.

Two other Holmes county officials, Representative Ray M. White and Auditor John F. Jameson, both Democrats and both unopposed, will also appear on the ballot.

Of the special levies which will be voted on Tuesday, five are for schools. The Millersburg-Hardy school district is seeking four mills for five years; Glenmont local school district is asking for two mills for five years, and the Lakeville district seeks two mills for five years.

Two other school districts, Walnut Creek and Nashville, are requesting approval of bond issues amounting to $32,000 and $18,000, respectively.

Clark township and Ripley township seek two mills for three years and one-and-a-half mills for three years, respectively, while Killbuck village and township requests a one-mill levy for five years. The former two are for current operating expenses and the latter for fire fighting equipment.

Polls will open in the county's 27 precincts at 6:30 a. m. and close at 6:30 p. m., Mrs. Helen Burkey, clerk of the Holmes county board of elections said.

ASHLAND TOPS QUOTA

ASHLAND — Ashland Community Chest campaign final reports indicate the campaign for $27,500 was topped by $1,720.55, with the total amounting to $29,220.55. The fund assists eight local agencies and the USO.

$600,000 BOND ISSUE FACES SHELBY VOTERS

SHELBY — Although intehest in the state and national political races is sub-normal here, according to tcompetent observers, the campaign being sponsored in Shelby for the two-mill operating levy and the $600,000 bond issue to build two new grade school buildings and an addition to the high school are expected to bring out a large number of voters.

The levy requires a 50 per cent vote to pass, while the bond issue will need a 65 per cent majority.

The average annual teacher's salary in Shelby now is $1,940 as compared with the state's average of $2,010, school officials declared.

If the levy is approved, officials said, it will mean a tax increase of only $2 per $1,000 of tax valuation, and the school system would receive $22,000 annually.

Realizing for some time that something had to be done to provide added facilities for school children here, the board of education was reluctant to proceed until recommendations were received from the survey made by the bureau of educational research at Ohio State university, school officials said.

Passage of the bond issue would allow the board to proceed with plans to abandon the present Hayes and Grant grade school buildings, and build a modern school on the site of the present Central grade school downtown. A 20-room building has been tentatively planned.

On a site west of the Hayes school, the board proposes the erection of a 12-room building to care for pupils now enrolled there. The planned addition to the high school would provide a vocational agriculture class and work shop, with remodelling of the physics and chemistry laboratories.

THINK--VOTERS--THINK

Mansfield, Ohio
Oct. 30, 1946

Dear Voter:

Next Tuesday we will go to the polls to elect Federal, State and County officials. I know of no man on the Republican ticket that is not wholly competent, qualified, experienced and co-operative enough to do a good job if elected.

However the important thing this year is the great issues involved—I wish to mention three in particular scarcities, taxes and prices.

SCARCITIES: No soap, no shortening, no toilet paper, no shirts, no cars, etc. A Republican Congress will remedy this situation immediately by passing legislation limiting exports of these scarce articles to foreign nations and by eliminating federal laws that have been holding back production.

TAXES: We pledge to reduce the federal income tax at least 10% by cutting the federal payroll 25% and by stopping the policy of giving away American dollars and goods to foreign nations. Also we pledge to do all in our power to reduce the State Sales Tax (Thomas Herbert has made the pledge time and time again) 1%—which will come out of the funds now going into the state surplus.

PRICES: Can and will be reduced by increasing production, by removing the shackles in the form of New Deal Laws affecting the economic twins supply and demand. Increased production means HIGH WAGES AND LOWER PRICES. Why is today we pay $1500 for the same post war car which cost $900? DEMOCRATIC NEW DEAL LAWS.

These items are issues only because the present Democratic administration has FAILED—after twelve long years of giving us the WPA and the OPA they are asking you to support the party of failure. Isn't it only fair that the Republican Party be given an opportunity to see what they can do? I THINK THIS IS A FAIR QUESTION AND IT CAN BE ANSWERED ONLY BY VOTING FOR A CHANGE.

We Must Have Republican Working Majorities---Therefore It Is Important To Vote The Straight Republican Ticket

Quality In 1946 Grain and Grass Crop Called Hidden 'Dividend'

BETTER MEATS WILL RESULT, EXPERTS AVER

Year's Crop Not Only Expected to Be Largest, But One of Highest In Quality.

By ROBERT E. GEIGER

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Nature has placed a hidden "dividend" in the 1946 grain and grass crop that promises tenderer and juicier beefsteaks earlier than would be possible with an ordinary crop.

Experts of the U. S. Department of Agriculture say this dividend is one of grain quality, an important factor in fattening beef.

The 1946 corn crop, now being harvested, is not only expected to be one of the largest in history, totaling around 3,374,000,000 bushels, but also one of the highest in quality.

The 1945 crop was large in quantity but one of the poorest in quality ever harvested in the United States. Department experts agree this was an important factor in the meat shortage early this year.

Corn is the crop used most widely to fatten cattle and produce the highest grades of beef. It takes time to do this, and normally the best corn-fed beef reaches the home tables in the spring.

But nature handed cattle consumers another ace to help them to a quick supply of good meat. This is an excellent grass and forage crop in western states.

Grass-fed cattle come to the market in the fall. This year's grass will produce good ones, the experts say.

Dr. Charles Burmeister, a department economist, says it has been estimated that the 3,018,410,000 bushels of corn produced last year was of such poor quality it was the equal of only 2,600,000,000 bushels of normal quality.

Many farmers estimated they had to feed from one-fourth to one-third more of 1945 corn to fatten an animal than they had to use in 1944.

"The corn was of poor quality because we had an early frost and wet weather," Dr. Burmeister said.

"The frost came before most of it was matured. It had to be harvested in an immature stage. This means that it had less nutritional value. More of it had to be used to fatten fewer animals."

Normally a corn crop can be carried over to the following summer and used to fatten hogs and cattle. Experts said this year's carry-over was of such poor quality it began to mold early and had to be fed before warm weather arrived in the spring. Thus the shortage of food for livestock and poultry was aggravated.

"But this year the corn crop already is 'made,'" Dr. Burmeister says.

"We already know that it is going to be of high quality and lots of it, because it matured before frost. And other weather conditions were favorable."

Among experts who agree with him are Dr. R. E. Davis, in charge of animal nutrition investigations, R. D. Jennings, economist, and Dr. C. D Lowe, extension animal husbandman.

In addition to a record corn crop, of high quality, there is a near-record number of cattle in the United States. The total is around 79,000,000 head.

The pork situation isn't so bright because fewer pigs were raised this year.

But from nature's standpoint the experts say the situation adds up to one of the most favorable beef prospects in the nation's history.

Crawford County Anticipates One of Its Heaviest Votes

BUCYRUS—Although Crawford county election laws require no registration of voters and therefore cannot prognosticate with any degree of accuracy the vote to be cast, old-time politicians here are anticipating one of the biggest votes in the history of politics in the county. Registrations in other sections of the country presage a similar heavy vote.

The 1944 presidential election brought out $17,844 voters in Crawford county and an even heavier vote is anticipated by Republicans who forecast a "protest" vote from Democrats not in sympathy with "new deal" policy as well as a heavy GOP vote. Total vote cast in the county in 1942 was 10,448.

Crawford county's local contests are centered about the race for congressman from the district. Congressman Frederick C. Smith, Republican, from Marion seeking his fourth term is opposed by oJhn T. Siemon of Kenton.

The race for representative to the general assembly between Carl Baker, Tiro, Democrat, and Terry Drake, Republican candidate from Galion, both newcomers in politics, and the two local contests for county commissioner and county auditor.

Z. O. Roop, Democrat, is seeking reelection as commissioner and is opposed by E. R. Leonard of Bucyrus. County Auditor Clarence C. Metzger seeks another term as auditor with Frederick Klein, Republican, as his opposition.

Another contest of special interest in Bucyrus is that for judge of the district court of appeals in which Common Pleas Judge C. U. Ahl, of Bucyrus, is a candidate with George S. Middleton, incumbent.

Also an issue of considerable importance here is the three-mill tax levy for school operation which has been widely endorsed by teacher and parent organizations, churches and other groups A two-tenths mill levy for park development and operation is also to come before voters here. Both are for five years duration.

Other voters in the county will find school levies with their ballots, 16 levies to be presented in all. Crestline is the only taxing sub-division which will not be called upon to cast a vote on a special levy. Levies vary from two to four mills and for three to five years duration. All are for school operation.

Election day Tuesday will wind up one of the most intensive campaigns in Crawford county in many years. Both parties have held rallies at which district and state candidates have appeared and several other rallies are scheduled for the closing days of the campaigns.

Bond Issues, Levies Leading Morrow County Vote Interest

MT. GILEAD—With but one contest among county officials, three bond issues, five school operating levies and four levies for other purposes coming before voters in Morrow county Tuesday, a light vote of approximately 6,500 ballots is predicted by Nelson Campbell, clerk of the county board of elections.

In the one county race, J. Wesley Masters, representative to the general assembly seeking reelection, is opposed by John M. Benson, jr. Masters is a Republican and Benson a Democrat.

County Auditor Harold Taylor and County Commissioner William McK. Thomas, both Republicans, are unopposed for reelection.

Principal interest in the county, however, rests with the bond issues and levies. Three bond measures, one county-wide for a $180,000 auditorium to be located at the Morrow county fairgrounds; the second, for $25,000 is proposed for the construction of a farm-shop building for the Washington township school district, and the third, a $190,000 issue covers construction for the Cardington village school district.

The Cardington measure would permit the erection of a new gymnasium and provide additional school classroom facilities

In addition to the bond issues, many school districts are asking approval of levies to meet current operating expenses. In this category are a five-mill levy for Mt. Gilead, and three mills in the Chester-Franklin district.

The Lincoln rural school district seeks two mills; five are sought in the Bennington school district, and the Edison rural school district is seeking four and a half mills

Other levies include the following Bennington township, one-half mill levy for cemetery purposes; Marengo corporation, three and one-half mills for current expenses, a one-mill cemetery levy in Cardington; and a one-mill levy in Cardington for fire protection.

A RECORD IS BETTER THAN A PROMISE

AMERICAN LEGION FOUNDERS

July 15, 1946.

Dear Comrade McGregor:

Many thanks for the additional copies of your 2 bills--House Resolution 450 and H. R. 5500.

Here, in the District of Columbia, we veterans are in an excellent position to and do appreciate all that you have done to provide housing for veterans now; you have shown exceptional judgment in your intensive campaign to make critical building materials, under government control, immediately available for veterans housing and to prohibit the export of all critical building materials during the housing emergency. Our committee is naturally interested in the immediate enactment of both bills.

It is noted that under the Congressional Reorganization Act that the Committee on Invalid Pensions, of which you have been a member for 6 years and its ranking minority member for 3, may possibly undergo some revision but we hope that such revision will not remove you from the field of veteran affairs where you have performed so efficiently and courageously in the interest of the veteran and his dependents. It is recalled that you are probably the only minority member, in either house, to have had the great honor to preside over a veterans' committee which was dominated by the majority party.

In the very near future we hope to have you as a guest at one of our Veterans' Housing Committee luncheons and in the meantime please be assured of our continued support of your good work in the interest of all veterans.

Yours in comradship,

PHILIP A. FOX, Acting Chairman
Veterans' Housing Committee,
Department of the District of Columbia,
The American Legion.

Honorable J. Harry McGregor, M. C.,

THOMAS J. HERBERT

Governor Lausche Vetoed The Daniel-Creamer Bill Providing An Increase In State Help to Schools

WHEN THE PRESENT GOVERNOR WAS A CANDIDATE IN 1944 HE MADE THE FOLLOWING PROMISE ON OCTOBER 26 OF THAT YEAR:

"The schools of Ohio are the very backbone of our democracy. They must be maintained and the State must INCREASE the contributions that it has given to the school system. That is firmly my view and I intend vigorously to stand by it."

The Daniel Creamer Bill was introduced in the legislature to provide an increase in the State allotment to the schools of from $32.80 to $45.00 for each pupil in the grade schools and an increase of from $45.00 to $54.00 for each pupil in the high schools. With millions of dollars of surplus in the State Treasury the Governor vetoed this bill, and it was passed over his veto by the legislature. He is the only Governor in Ohio's more than one hundred fifty years of history to veto a bill authorizing the appropriation of funds to pay teachers' salaries.

In Michigan the schools get from the State Treasury $67.50 per pupil for the first six grades $87.50 per pupil for the next three grades, and $113.00 per pupil for the last three grades.

From the time a child becomes six years old until he is seventeen or eighteen he is entrusted to the care and teaching of the teachers in the public schools, and these teachers should be well paid and the schools supported.

Every teacher, parent and friend of the schools should vote for Herbert for Governor.

HERBERT For Governor

Thomas J. Herbert, as a citizen, a soldier and a public official has had just the training and experience needed to head Ohio's government in these critical times. As a three-term Attorney General of Ohio he has had intimate touch with every department of state government and learned first-hand the functions and problems of each.

At the outbreak of the first World War, Mr. Herbert left his studies, enrolled in the First Officer's Training Camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison, later transferred to aviation, received training in this country and England and in March 1918 was commissioned First Lieutenant United States Air Force. He was awarded both the United States Distinguished Service Cross and the British Distinguished Flying Cross for exploits with the 56th Pursuit Squadron.

The Home Stretch

Next Tuesday the voters will have their say. A few Pencil marks on a ballot and the political fates of anxious, hopeful candidates will be decided.

These last few days are important. Not only to the candidates who want to get in the last word, the last blow, to win another vote, but to the voter himself. His is a serious responsibility. He must pick the best men to represent him and to conduct state and national affairs—the biggest and most important business in the country.

Many voters have already decided for whom they will vote. Others are still making up their minds. But in either case, we urge the voter to use these final days before election to make sure that he is voting for the men who actually will be representing HIS will in Mansfield, Richland County, in Columbus and in Washington.

Adequate opportunity has been provided for the voters to become fully informed on the qualifications and platforms of each candidate. Much time has been devoted to politics in the last few weeks and more will be given to covering the final stages of the campaign for the sole purpose of providing the voter with a sound basis for his choice.

Every citizen has the right to vote. Every good citizen has the duty of marking a ballot and the responsibility of entrusting the affairs of HIS government to the best possible hands.

Needed In Congress

Confronting Ohio voters this coming election, next Tuesday, November 5, are many fundamental issues, not the least of which is that involved in the course to be pursued by Congress during this unsettled period following the war.

Voters of Mansfield, Richland county and Ohio will have the opportunity of exercising a real influence for both economic and political stability at that time by casting their ballots for former Governor Bricker for the Senate, for Congressman-at-large George W. Bender and for Congressman J. Harry McGregor of the 17th district.

A ringing endorsement of both Mr. Bricker and Mr. Bender by voters of the state and of Congressman McGregor by the voters of Richland county and the 17th district will go a long way toward equipping the hand of Congress with what it needs if it is to meet and solve in the best and most lasting interests of America and the challenging problems facing it in its next session.

HOME PLANNING STRESSES AIDS TO 'OLDSTERS'

Builders and Architects See Definite Trends Toward Planning Changes.

Builders and architects foresee definite changes in planning and construction of the private home in the next few years due to the noticeable increase in the number of older people in the population.

Recent government figures show that the number of persons in the over 65 group increased 35 per cent in the last ten years. Tables of life expectancy of insurance firms indicate that the older groups will increase even more in the future.

Two reasons are given for this trend. The first is that improvement in health measures and medical discoveries have enabled people to live longer. The second is that people as a whole are raising smaller families with the result that the middle and older aged groups may someday overbalance the younger.

Home planning is being affected by this change because the requirements of older people are different from those of the younger more active persons. Most people who build their homes look forward to living in them for a lifetime.

But many persons who built a home a decade ago are finding that certain changes must be made if the house is to remain suitable for their use today. They can't get around as actively as they could then. Steep stairs that didn't bother them years ago are an obstacle today.

The two major considerations in planning housing for older people are safety and convenience, because in the group over 60 years of age, it has been found that 64 per cent of them are victims of household accidents.

Protection from drafts and excessive cold and heat is of utmost importance to older persons. Fire-prevention is another factor to be taken into consideration where older persons are concerned.

Insulation of newly built houses with batt or blanket mineral wool will insure protection from these hazards. It will aid in controlling interior temperatures, and act as a fire-stop within the wall spaces and ceiling areas of the house. Storm-windows, doors and weatherstripping will prevent drafts and further improve comfort during winter months.

Prevention by planning is the secret of successful living for the aged as well as for the younger home-builders. Such features as first floor bedrooms and bath facilities, a circular ramp instead of cellar stairs, built-in conveniences and compact work arrangements, all will appeal to older persons.

Serious falls can be greatly reduced by avoiding slick floors, by providing wide, easily accessible stairs with strong railings, and by building all rooms on the same level. Obstructions should be reduced to the minimum. The bathroom requires special attention to insure adequate hand holds and other safety devices to prevent older persons from slipping.

Home plans should be made carefully with this in view, so the arrangement, location and installation of facilities will contribute to the safety, health and happiness of the constantly increasing number of older people.

Refrigerator Cars Are Help In Indiana Housing Shortage

A NEW style in residential architecture is blossoming on the shores of Lake Michigan, near Michigan City, Ind. Following the example of a public school principal, more than a score of families have overcome the housing shortage by converting railroad freight cars into attractive homes.

Box cars have been lived in before, but the new method consists of transforming the cars, inside and out, with such refinements as handsome white asbestos sidings, shingled roofs, French doors, built-in kitchen cabinets and landscaped grounds.

F. W. Standiford, principal of an elementary school, started the trend after encountering difficulties in getting materials for a summer home. He heard old equipment could be purchased from a railroad, so he obtained an antiquated refrigerator car and had it towed to his property and set on concrete blocks.

Aided by suggestions from his wife, he proceeded to turn it into a home. The first step was to remove the ice containers from either end. The doors on one side were nailed shut and those on the other side were replaced with French doors. Windows were cut through the thick side and walls.

Then the interior was partitioned into bedroom, living room and kitchen. A brick chimney was installed for the oil heater. The roof was recovered and the outer walls were dressed up with fireproof asbestos cement shingles.

The final steps were building a small front porch laying a sidewalk and landscaping the lawn.

When completed, the home gave little indication of once having been "rolling stock," although the owners carried out the railroad theme by building a garage which they called the "roundhouse," and a smaller structure which is the "caboose."

The novel home attracted many visitors, among them many victims of the housing shortage. Soon similar dwellings were springing up around the countryside. Methods of operation follow much the same pattern. A railroad car is towed to a site on truck wheels and set on blocks. Conversion then follows.

One of the most attractive freight car homes is that of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hanson. It is set on an acre of land and has two bedrooms, a 10-by-14-foot living room, a kitchen, a bathroom, and even a full basement! The living room was built as an addition to the box car. Mrs. Hanson's kitchen needs are served by electrically pumped well water.

Most of the homes are heated with oil. Electrical facilities enable the owners to enjoy many modern conveniences. Because of their thick, insulated walls, the houses are comfortable the year around.

FACTS AND FIGURES

With one kilowatt hour of electricity, you can cleanse seventy pounds of clothes in your household washer, or run your ironer for fifty minutes.

Village of Lexington Has Enjoyed 134 Years of Gracious Living

PIONEERS FIRST SETTLED TOWN EARLY IN 1812

Flood of 1913 'Most Exciting' Event In History, Old-Time Resident Says.

By GEORGE SATTLER

More than 130 years ago a small band of pioneers, weary from their trek westward, gathered on the banks of the Clear Fork seven miles south of Mansfield, looked at the rich valleys and wooded hills, and decided that at last they had found their new home.

They called the new village "Lexington" after the famous battle of the Revolutionary war, in which many of the original settlers had fought.

"The word 'Lexington' was a symbol which meant peace and freedom to the old timers," Harry F. Smith, a life-long resident and student of the town's early history, explained.

"They couldn't have chosen a more apt name either," Smith chuckled, "because generations have lived in the valley in peace and contentment since that day."

"The years have brought very little change to the town," he went on. "You don't have to walk very far in the town to find houses built over a century ago."

Even when the "iron horse" came puffing along the valley in 1850, it had little effect on the town. The population remained about the same, and the townspeople continued their unhurried, gracious way of living.

Population at the last census was 713, but Dr. F. P. Barr, one of Lexington's leading citizens, said he expected the total to reach 800 within the next few years.

"The most exciting thing that happened to the town in my memory was the flood of 1913," Smith said. "No one was killed or hurt but it scared plenty of us."

He recalled that many farms were inundated, families isolated, and bridges carried away by waters from the Clearfork when it overflowed its banks.

"I remember especially how excited people were when the footbridge spanning the stream collapsed," Smith said. "A few people were on the bridge at the time and were forced to scramble to safety.

"We had to rig up a flat-bottom boat and used it as a cable ferry to rescue those who were stranded by the flood waters."

For several days the town was completely isolated from Mansfield, since telegraph wires were down and roads to the north were covered by water, he said.

Lexington was laid out in lots in 1812 by Amariah Watson, who built the first log cabin in the town. The second home was erected by Jacob Cook in the same year.

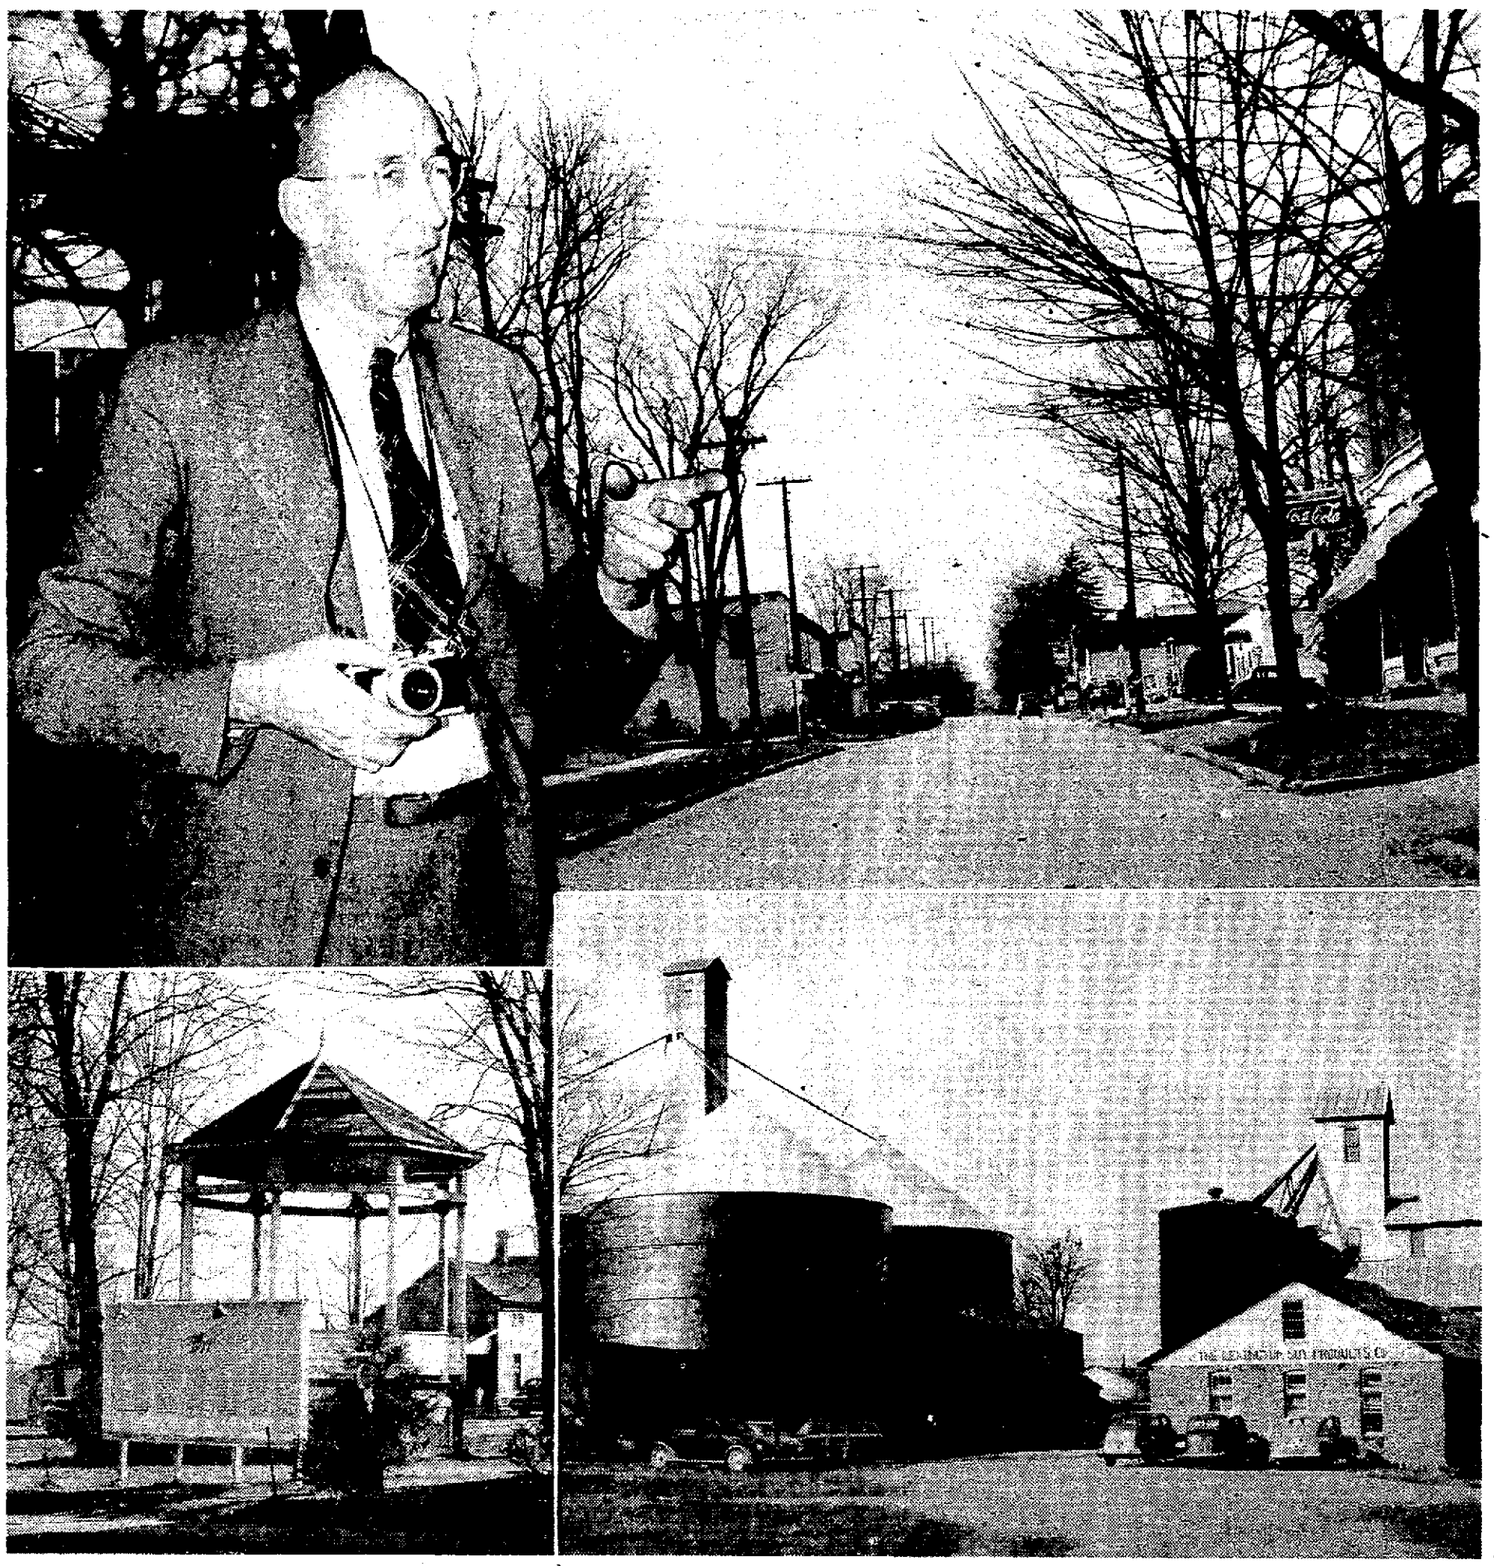
Each cabin had portholes through which muskets could be pointed at unfriendly Indians which occasionally frequented the neighborhood.

Shortly after the town was laid out the population grew to several hundred. In addition to retail stores, Lexington soon had a gristmill and a saw mill.

Today Lexington boasts a number of industries, with the Lexington Soy Products company probably the most outstanding. The company, with H. E. Carpenter as president, processes about 1,000,000 bushels of soy beans a year, chemically breaking down the beans into meal and oil. The products are used to make plastics.

United Implements, Inc., headed by William Templeton, manufactures potato diggers and other farm equipment in the town. According to plant officials, their business has been expanding steadily in the past few years.

The Farm Bureau also maintains a grain elevator in Lexington.



FOUNDED 134 YEARS AGO—Since it was first laid out in 1812, Lexington has enjoyed many years of peaceful and gracious living. Top left is Harry F. Smith, a life-long resident of the town, who has made a hobby of studying Lexington history. Top right is a view of Main street, Lexington. The street has changed little in past years. Many of the buildings and houses which line the street were built over a century ago. The public square, lower left, has been the scene of many entertainments and meetings in the village for many years. Lower right is the Lexington Soy Products company, a modern plant which processes soy beans for the market.

AKRON NORTH WINS HARRIER TITLE

OUTDOORS
With McGinty

With the 1946 duck season only eight days old, Mansfield hunters are perturbed with the way Indian Summer has been playing havoc with their shooting sport.

According to early reports, ducks are plentiful around Mifflin lake and Pleasant Hill dam but the migratory ducks have shied away from this vicinity because of the warm weather. The ducks that usually migrate through these parts are waiting far to the north until the weather breaks.

A couple of blizzards or considerably cooler temperatures will send the birds winging their way across Ohio in their yearly southward trek.

For any embryo hunters bagging any ducks here's a couple of ways to clean the birds:

Pluck the duck clean of all the larger feathers, leaving only the downy ones. Then simply "erase" them with a block of art gum, using the art gum just as you would to erase an error on a piece of writing paper. Simple, isn't it? However, it does the trick.

Jack Welch, Campfire Corner columnist, says, "When dressing the bird, pluck out the larger feathers and then dip the bird in hot pariffin. The down will peel off easily. If your paraffin supply is low, heat what you have in a pie tin and roll the duck in it."

The Ohio duck season ends on December 9.

Proceeds for the coon chase scheduled for the Harry Maxwell farm today will be used to restock the field and woods with more coons for next season. The Maxwell farm is two miles south of Lexington on Route 42.

The coon division of the Richland county fish and game association is sponsoring the chase. It will be the last one of the 1946 season.

A bright red cap or jacket is not a sure method of keeping hunters from being mistaken for wildlife. The American Optometric association reports that some 140,000 hunters are color blind. From two to five percent of our male population canot distinguish colors.

"DUCKS LTD." is the name of a newly formed private duck hunting club on the John R. Hattery farm, 10 miles north of Mansfield.

Dredging an 18 acre swamp, the members built a dam 700 feet long and four feet high increasing their acreage to 50 with the depth ranging from 18 inches to six feet.

Then the members put to work placing their 10 duck blinds in various areas and bought four boats for retrieving purposes and sowed wild rice and planted duck potatoes.

According to Hattery, Ducks Ltd. club members have been the few successful hunters in this area to bag any ducks during this warm spell. He said there have been at least 1,000 wood ducks, blue wing teel, green wing teel, and mallard.

Otis Cummins, Dr. Robert Scott, Bill Mabee, Dick Tappan, Bart Herring, Louis Hartman, Mart Wolf, Gordon Jelliff, Ed Stevens, Marion Ports, Gil Dobson, Carlton Fernyak, Tom Ford and Hattery have already bagged their daily limit at least once this season.

Dr. John S Hattery, an honorary member of the club, has been the most successful hunter so far, bagging his limit on several occasions.

Cummins came through with the most timely remark in the early stages of the season. He said, "the ducks were falling so fast that the water started splashing in my eyes and I couldn't see to shoot anymore."

Muskingum Edges Denison, 14 To 13

GRANVILLE (AP)—A 29-yard touchdown pass in the final two minutes and an off-tackle run for the extra point—both by Roy Turner—gave Muskingum a 14-13 victory over Denison university before 3,500 Dad's day fans yesterday.

Trailing 13-7 in the fourth period, Muskingum marched 61 yards in four plays for the team's fourth victory of the year and Denison's fifth straight loss.

With the ball on Denison's 29, Turner passed to sub end Branko Stupar in the end zone for the touchdown, then made the run for the deciding point.

Denison opened the scoring in the first period when Bill Henderson crashed off tackle from the ten, but Muskingum got it back with a 35-yard drive, with Jim Davis scoring from the one in the last minute. Bernard Wentis bumped over from the one in the second period to give Denison its brief lead.

Denver-Utah State Battle Snowed Out

DENVER — (AP) — The crucial Big Seven football game between Denver and Utah State was postponed at the last moment yesterday as a howling blizzard dumped snow two feet deep on the Denver field.

As the drifts deepened rapidly despite the efforts of a crew of shovelers and clouds of wind-driven snow reduced visibility to near zero, Coaches Clyde Hubbard of Denver and Dick Romney of Utah State agreed to a postponement. A new date was not set immediately.

A crowd of 20,000 had been indicated by advance ticket sales but many of the cars that attempted to drive to the stadium were stalled in street drifts. About 100 hardy fans were seated when the decision was announced on the loudspeaker.

Field Goal Drops Penn Into Limbo

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—A 30-yard field goal by Ken Keuffel, sophomore back, with only one minute left to play, gave the Princeton Tigers a thrilling 17-14 victory over the University of Pennsylvania today in one of the greatest upsets of the 1946 season.

Ranked third in the nation last week behind Army and Notre Dame, the undefeated, untied and much heavier Quakers were outplayed most of the way by a seemingly inspired crew from Old Nassau, and the triumph that Keuffel's boot provided was richly deserved. It was the first victory ever scored by the Tigers on Franklin field.

From midway of the second quarter a crowd of 72,000 had watched the two teams struggle to break a 14-14 deadlock and it looked as though they would have to settle for a tie, with the big clock registering exactly a minute to go, Keuffel put all his 185 pounds behind his placekick. The ball just barely cleared the crossbar as Penn's followers sat in stupefied silence.

Penn, regarded as the ranking power of the East with the exception of Army, entered the game a 28-point favorite to trounce the Tigers.

Cincinnati Overpowered.

TULSA, Okla.—(AP)—Tulsa university's Golden Hurricane scored two quick touchdowns in the first period and rammed over a third in the second stanza to overpower the Cincinnati university Bearcats, 20-0, yesterday on a rain-bogged football field.

A crowd of 10,000 persons braved the weather to watch this inaugural game of a new football rivalry.

Tulsa's superior line play against the Bearcats' heavier forwards dominated play throughout and Cincinnati threatened only once, late in the game, when Right Half Allen Richards reeled off a 34-yard run that put the ball on Tulsa's 14. A penalty set Cincinnati on the 10, but Quarterback Bill Williams was tossed for a six-yard loss and the ball went over to Tulsa.

Bobcats Smother Wesleyan, 49 To 7

DELAWARE —(AP)— Ohio University's Bobcats overpowered Ohio Wesleyan 49-7 yesterday before a Selby Field homecoming crowd of 9,000.

Just two minutes after the game started, the Bobcats launched a successful scoring drive and their lead was never threatened.

King Brady's ball-carrying sparked the Bobcat drive, but Chris Stefans also sparkled.

The rangy Ohio University team improved as it rolled along and flashed an excellent passing attack in the fourth quarter.

Ohio Wesleyan pushed over a last period score on a long drive, with Wayne McFarland scoring on a quarterback sneak. The Bishops matched Ohio University's 13 first downs, but couldn't equal the Bobcats' power and drive.

WISCONSIN, ILLINI, INDIANA VICTORIOUS

LAFAYETTE, Ind.—(AP)—Wisconsin's alert Badgers plodded over a soggy field for two touchdowns and turned pass interceptions into two more to beat Purdue's Boilermakers yesterday, 24 to 20, before 32,000 homecoming fans.

Fullback Earl Maves and Halfback Ben Bendrick powered the Badger ground attack, Maves gaining an even 100 yards in 20 rushes and Bendrick picking up a fancy 89-yard total in 10 lunges.

Purdue marched and flew 96 yards for its first quarter touchdown on alternate line plunges by Fullback Ed Cody and passes by Bob Demoss. The Boilermaker quarterback tossed the ball 29 yards to End Bob Heck for the tally.

A 12-yard run by Bendrick set up a Wisconsin touchdown in the second quarter, with Gene Evans, freshman halfback, going 10 yards to score.

Wisconsin took a 12-to-7 lead in the third period on Bendrick's 27-yard end run. Halfback Wally Dreyer intercepted Johnny Galvin's pass and scampered 30 yards for the Badgers' third touchdown.

Demoss passed 30 yards to End Norm Maloney for a Purdue touchdown early in the final quarter.

Center Gene Negus picked off Demoss' throw and lateralled to Maves, who went 62 yards to the Purdue 9. Sub Halfback Frank Granitz plunged for the score that gave Wisconsin a 24-to-13 lead.

With three minutes left, Demoss passed 31 yards to John McCay on the Badger one and Ed Cody crunched over. Purdue's last drive failed as Demoss took his harnessed shoulder from the field.

Crush Iowa, 7-0.

IOWA CITY, Ia.—(AP)—Illinois, cruising 68 yards for its only touchdown, toppled Iowa 7 to 0 yesterday to shoot into first place in the Big Nine football championship race.

It was Illinois' fourth conference win in five starts and let the Illini ramble into the league lead as a result of Northwestern's defeat by Ohio State.

The Illini, outplayed in the first half by an Iowa team that failed utterly to capitalize on its opportunities, bounced back to dominate the contest throughout the final two periods.

In the second half Illinois, with Claude (Buddy) Young in the backfield for the first time, took charge after the kickoff.

The Illini used up four minutes in the final quarter to rack up the only touchdown of the game, Russ Steger plunging over from the 2-yard line. Don Maechtle placekicked the extra point and that was all the scoring entertainment for the crowd of 52,000.

Passes Smother Panthers.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—(AP)—A 65-yard touchdown run by Halfback Bob Cowan coupled with long passes gave Indiana a 20-to-6 victory yesterday over the Pittsburgh Panthers.

Pitt opened the scoring with a 27-yard pass from Lee to McPeak, who was standing behind the goal line.

Indiana came back quickly with the veteran Pete Pihos, who was injured, rushed into the lineup. A pass from Cowan to Hoppe netted 40 yards. Another from the Hoosier's ace passer, Ben Raimondi, to Mel Groomes, put the ball on the two and Pihos went over. Charles Armstrong added the extra point.

In the second quarter, Mel Groomes caught a pass on the 12 and went to the 4. He scored three plays later on a lateral and Armstrong again added the point.

Pitt was fooled again in the third. Bibbs took a kick and ran across the field, handed the ball to Bob Cowan as he passed him, and Cowan, a sprint star, raced down the left side of the field to score. Armstrong failed to kick the point.

Pasha Signed To Face Leone

Ali Pasha, a mean Turk, has been signed to grapple Antone Leone, the Brooklyn walloper in the main-go of the weekly wrestling card, Thursday night at the Armory.

Pasha will be making his second appearance at the Armory. In 1945 he did a one night stand on Promoter Earl Myers program. Leone has been on the local grunt show several times this season.

Myers announced that Ali Aliba, another Turk, would face Fred Crone, a newcomer from Boston, in the first match starting at 8:15 o'clock.

Both the main-go and preliminary contests will be the best two-out-of-three falls, with a 60 minute time limit.
